

Americans Use Many Kinds Of Guidemarks On Hostile Country

By HAL BOYLE
(Advance)—With An American Unit in Germany, Oct. 13—(Delayed)—(AP)—You learn to use all kinds of guidemarks to find your path in this hostile country.

Lt. Thomas D. Rodman, of Sparta, Ill., a reconnaissance officer who has been out in front all the way across France, Belgium and into Germany was out checking patrols recently. It was so dark he could hardly see the end of his rifle.

Struggling back into the command post some time before midnight he complained:

"Damn those engineers. They went and buried that old dead end and smoothed out the road where I have been turning left and I didn't smell him and wandered all over the place before I could find him."

Dangerous Experience
Lt. E. Hulen Denton of Casper, Wyoming, had a more dangerous experience as a result of tampering "by person or persons unknown" with the road signs along the German-Holland border.

"He left at night to go to the command post of some forward troops," said Lt. Robert M. Batley, of Detroit, Ill., "and he noted by the map that its position had not been changed. But the signs leading to it had."

"Denton drove seven miles following the signs and knew he was going too far. He stopped and lit his flashlight at an intersection to try to find his way and the Germans opened up on him with three rifles and one burp gun. He had driven right past our lines into enemy territory."

"He put out his flashlight, jumped into the jeep and escaped. Later we checked and found the direction of four signs leading to the command post had been changed. There have been several such instances."

Eager To Quit
Pvt. Ray Towson, Cleveland, O., reconnaissance motorcycle rider, wanted to see if his carbine was working properly. He was only a short distance from the bivouac area so he fired a test bullet into a hedge. Out came two Germans with their hands held high and their knees shaking. They led the surprised private to two more Germans and he brought all four in.

No telling how many he might have got with aimed fire.

Sgt. Guy W. Sanborn of South Minneapolis, Minn., is wearing the silver star because he was too stubborn to obey an order to withdraw hot battle action to a better position.

Stays With Buddy
He would not pull back with the rest of his light machine gun squad because he was treating a wounded comrade. He stuck to his task through heavy enemy small arms fire. Then disregarding the bullets kicking the earth around him, he picked up the wounded man and carried him 50 yards over open ground to shelter.

Now he has a medal to remember that walk.

The army's cooperation with the press in getting back to American newspapers stories on the activities of individual soldiers is bearing fruit in improved morale.

Most troop commanders know what a boost it is to both officers and men to see their name in print in the home town paper. It makes them feel they're appreciated by the community they left behind.

The latest to testify to this effect is Capt. Asa Barnard, Glenville, Ga., an officer in a front-line armored battalion. Writing on the "splendid results" obtained by news accounts of the battalion's fighting he said, "many clippings have been received by personnel in the battalion and the morale effect is remarkable."

SOLDIER DIES IN ENGLAND

Mrs. Beulah Grogg, Hanover, received a War Department telegram Saturday informing her that her son, Pvt. Jesse Grogg, died in England September 30. No details were given and the family does not know whether death was due to illness or injury.

Pvt. Grogg had been overseas less than a month. He entered the Army March 3, 1942, and trained at Camp Swift, Tex.; Fort Benning, Ga.; Camp Mackall, N. C. and Camp Pickens, Va.

A paratrooper, Pvt. Grogg was stationed at Fort Meade, Md., for a brief time before going overseas. He was home for a furlough during the third week in August and went to England shortly thereafter.

Pvt. Grogg was a member of Hanover Fire company No. 1. He was affiliated with Hanover post, 2806, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Before going into the armed forces, he was a member of the VFW drum and bugle corps.

Surviving are the parents and following brothers and sisters: Cpl. Isaac H. Grogg, Jr., in the Pacific area; Leroy E. Grogg, York; Mrs. Geraldine Simpson, York; Mrs. Anna Goucker Hanover, and Mrs. Martha Crushong, Littlestown.

Exhume Remains Of 3 Victims In Fire; Open Probe

A three-way investigation of the fire last March 8 that claimed the lives of a 74-year-old blind woman, her 24-year-old niece and the latter's infant son, aged 17 months, reached a climax this morning when the small white coffin containing charred remains of the three victims was exhumed in Union cemetery at Fairfield.

State police, District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Dr. C. G. Crist, county coroner, Sheriff John E. Millhimes, Deputy Sheriff B. E. Bixler, and Dr. C. Harold Johnson, pathologist at the Warner hospital, were on hand for the removal of the three-foot coffin and rough box from the small grave.

Doctor Johnson Examines Bones
The coffin was taken to the S. L. Allison funeral home in Fairfield, from which it had been buried on March 9, the day after the fire, and there the casket was opened and Doctor Johnson began examination of the contents under flood lights placed by a state police photographer.

The fire under investigation, first by state police as a routine fire probe, and then later on a wider basis when undisclosed circumstances developed, cost the lives of Mrs. Margaret Smith, 74; her niece, Mrs. Violet McKee, and the latter's child, Billy Leroy McKee.

Only occupants of the frame and log dwelling at Iron Springs to escape from the flames were Percy Smith, 41, son of the aged woman who was burned, and four-year-old Mary Alice McKee, sister of the infant that burned.

The exhuming this morning was carried out under the authority of a court order handed down several weeks ago and promptly impounded to maintain the secrecy that has marked the investigation.

First in County
Opening of the grave at Fairfield was the first such instance in this county within the memory of officials present for the operation.

District Attorney Yake would not say what Doctor Johnson's preliminary examination of the remains found in the coffin disclosed today but said that a thorough analysis of the charred fragments will be made—probably by state chemists.

"At the time of the blaze, the cause of which was never determined, Fairfield firemen and the Fairfield funeral director, S. L. Allison, removed charred objects from the ruins which they believed at the time to be the torso of the infant with the head and arms and legs missing, and other fragments which they thought were parts of the bodies of the two women."

All of the remains were placed in the single three-foot coffin and were interred at common rites the morning of March 9. The rough box and coffin were in good condition this morning after having been buried for more than seven months.

Victims Trapped
The state police investigation has been directed by Jack Arms, special investigator from the state fire marshal's office, with Private Harold K. Trout of the Gettysburg detail of the state police assisting. The offices of the district attorney and the coroner have given "full cooperation" to the probe.

$29 DONATED TO JUNIOR R.C.
A preliminary report today by Mrs. Margaret Beiler, Junior Red Cross secretary for Adams county, showed a total of $29.83 has been contributed by the children in one Gettysburg and three township schools to the Junior Red Cross.

The High street school building led the schools with $25.45. The other donors included $2 from the Moritz school in Freedom township; $1.50 from the Heidersburg school; and 28 cents from the Cold Spring grammar school.

The Junior Red Cross membership campaign which opened last Tuesday in the county schools is continuing this week. Today Mrs. Beiler is showing a motion picture, "Hand in Hand," to the children of the East Berlin schools. The film shows activities of Junior Red Cross groups in various schools and communities, work which is done for the National Children's fund and the reception of gifts by children overseas.

Mrs. Beiler, a field representative of the Junior Red Cross, will speak Wednesday at the York Springs and Gettysburg high schools. The "Hand in Hand" film will be shown at York Springs although a different motion picture will be presented at the Gettysburg high school.

A further contributions and membership report will be made later in the week.

AUXILIARY MEETING
The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Legion home, Baltimore street. Members are urged to attend tonight's session, at the new hour, dressed in costume for a Halloween party.

Wounded

Staff Sergeant John C. Heiser, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heiser, Littlestown R. 1, was seriously wounded in infantry action in France, September 24, the War department has notified his parents. In a letter to his wife, Mrs. Gladys (Derr) Heiser, Gettysburg R. 2, Sgt. Heiser said he was hit in the ankle and several bones were fractured.

Gets Posthumous Purple Heart Award

Mrs. Orby McMillion, South Washington street, whose husband was fatally wounded in action on the Anzio beachhead, February 18, has received a posthumous Purple Heart medal awarded to her husband by the War department. Pvt. McMillion was first reported missing in infantry action and later listed as killed.

Mrs. McMillion has learned from the War department that the battalion to which her husband was attached was moving forward in the front lines but before they reached their positions there was an enemy counterattack in which the Gettysburg man received fatal wounds.

County Marine Receives Discharge

An honorable discharge from the United States Marine Corps was recorded this morning at the court house for Albert Luscomb Brookhouse, of Littlestown.

The discharge paper gave the date of Brookhouse's entry into the Marine Corps as April 1, 1942, when he enlisted at Baltimore. He was discharged at the Marine Barracks, Naval Mine Depot, Yorktown, Virginia, October 30, with the rank of private first class. The discharge was by special order of the commandant of the Marine Corps.

Willard C. Weikert Now In California

Cpl. Willard C. Weikert, 28, son of Mrs. Mary Weikert, Taneytown road, has arrived at the U.S. Naval hospital, Oakland, Calif., after serving with the Marines in the south Pacific since December, 1943.

Cpl. Weikert became hospitalized due to malaria last May. He saw action with the Marines on Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Gilbert Islands and New Caledonia.

He enlisted in the Marines in December, 1941, and trained at Parris Island, S. C., and Camp Lejeune, N. C.

JUDGE REVEALS BIBLE STORIES NOT "LEGEND"

"More than 10,000 inscriptions have been unearthed by archaeological expeditions and not one of them has disproved a line of the Bible story," Judge William M. Hargest, president judge of the common pleas court of Dauphin county and an elder in the Market Square Presbyterian church, Harrisburg, asserted in his Layman's Day address in the local Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

His theme was "Recent Proofs of Old Testament History." He declared that discoveries by archaeologists have "forced the retreat" of those students of ancient times, many of them German, who had labelled many of the Old Testament stories as "legends."

He cited many instances in which the historical accuracy of Old Testament writers has been confirmed by cuneiform and hieroglyphic writings covering or referring to the span of years that included many of the most notable stories and events of the Old Testament.

Prove Bible Truths

A Babylonian account of the flood coincides with the Mosaic record, he said. Silt deposits that have been uncovered have further substantiated the fact of the flood while other "finds" in modern times have borne out the biblical accounts of the movement of the children of Israel from Egypt, the fall of Jericho, the episodes of the fiery furnace, the lions' den in the book of Daniel, the crossing of the Jordan and many others.

Judge Karl E. Richards, president judge of the Dauphin county orphans court, conducted the worship service and Judge W. C. Sheely, president judge of the courts of Adams and Fulton counties, presided. Judge Richards also is an elder of the Market Square church and Judge Sheely is an elder in the local church.

The Gettysburg Businessmen's chorus of 17 voices sang two anthems, "Strong in Thy Strength, O Jesus," and "Nearer to Thee."

The guest organist was the Rev. John E. Sanderson.

Judge Sheely Lauded

Laymen's Sunday was designated by the Presbyterian church and in the words of Judge Sheely was intended "to show the world that laymen are vitally interested in the work of the church."

Judge Sheely introduced the visiting jurists as men "recognized as the finest judges in Pennsylvania" and spoke of his high personal regard for them.

Judge Hargest, speaking for himself and Judge Richards, acknowledged the assistance Judge Sheely has given them in handling the great volume of business in Dauphin county court and added "We have come to love him for his fine, very fine, qualities of mind and heart."

BULLETINS

Staunton, Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, commanding the American Seventh Army in France, notified his wife here today that their son, Capt. Alexander M. Patch, 3rd, 24, has been killed in action.

The radiogram handled through the War Department said: "Mac killed instantly yesterday while assaulting enemy positions in France." Capt. Patch, the general's son, had just returned to duty after treatment for wounds received Aug. 28. Commissioned from West Point in 1942, he had been overseas this year with the 79th Division in command of a rifle company. His wife and young son reside at Evanston, Ill.

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 23 (Via Army Radio) (AP)—American soldiers, pushing westward on Leyte Island's southern front, today overran strong Japanese defense positions and were trying to trap enemy troops retreating up the wide Leyte valley.

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain today recognized the De Gaulle administration as the "provisional government of the French republic."

Moscow radio reported that Soviet Russia had taken the same step, and similar announcements came from Ottawa and Canberra.

General MacArthur's headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 22 (Delayed)—(AP)—Pfc. Isaac B. Hagine, Freeport, Pa., was one of the first 83 American prisoners of war to be rescued from the Philippines. The Americans were on a torpedoed enemy transport and were hidden by guerrillas until removed from the islands.

Americans Advance On Leyte; Gains In Hungary, Holland

(By The Associated Press)
London, Oct. 23—Field Marshal Montgomery's stepped up offensive in Belgium and Holland is making good headway, supreme headquarters said today in confirming the capture of Breskens in the Schelde pocket.

Field dispatches said the west side of the British salient in Holland spouted steel along a 12-mile front today after a third British column jumped off at midnight last night and with two other spearheads was fast approaching the vital German communications hub of Hertogenbosch. The Allied attack there was launched early yesterday morning.

The communique said Allied forces are clearing the enemy from the Wurselen area, north-east of Aachen where approximately 1,600 prisoners were taken when fighting in the city ceased.

Patton On Move

To the south Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army pressed a new offensive 18 miles east of the French city Nancy. Fighting continued in Malzeres les Metz while further south gains were reported in the area of Bezeange, Courcourt and Emmerental, northeast and east of Lunerville.

Northeast of Epinal, gains were made against heavy resistance. East of the city a concentration of enemy troops was hit by fighter-bombers. Heavy pressure was maintained against the enemy in the Vosges region.

Struck by a series of Allied attacks along the whole western front from the Netherlands to the Belfort Gap area, the Germans sent their flying bombs against frontline targets for the first time yesterday.

Nazis Use Robots

Robots were seen over positions of the American First Army, but it is believed the flying bombs do not have sufficient accuracy to make them of any real value on the battlefield.

The Canadian First Army rolled the Germans farther back above Antwerp, taking Essen after an 11-mile advance. This victory bolstered the Allied grip on the narrow causeway to the west leading to the Schelde estuary islands, where German guns have denied Allied ships the sea lane to Antwerp. Essen, on the Belgian-Dutch border, is 16 miles north of Antwerp.

The Canadians were pushing north toward the German strong-points of Bergen op Zoom, Roosendaal, Breda and Tilburg. It is in this sector that the Germans are believed to have concentrated large portions of their 100,000 to 150,000 troops estimated to be holding in western Holland.

Canadians Advance

The Canadians scored still a second victory in their drive to clear Antwerp's approaches when they captured the ferry port of Breskens near the mouth of the Schelde estuary and swept on a half-mile farther into old Fort Frederik-Hendrik.

Compressing still more the German pocket in the Breskens area the Canadians drove within a half-mile of Schoondijke below Breskens, and within a mile of Oostburg, southwest of Schoondijke.

POLICE PROBE TWO ACCIDENTS

State police from the local substation investigated two automobile accidents, one involving approximately $450 damage, over the week-end.

A truck driven by Ernest Jenkins, Newark, New Jersey, struck a car driven by George H. Parks, Bethlehem, on Mount Newman after going out of control when the brakes failed Saturday evening about 7:15 o'clock. Police said Jenkins told them that after the brake failure, his truck ran into a ditch beside the road and traveled downhill, striking a concrete abutment. The impact threw the truck across the highway striking the left rear of Parks' automobile which was going up the grade. Damage to the truck was estimated at $400, while that to the car was about $50.

In the second accident, an automobile driven by Donald Julius, Dover R. D., ran off a back road on East Berlin R. 1, and ran into a fence on the property of Ada Berkheimer. Damage to the car was estimated at $25 while the fence was injured to the extent of approximately $10, the police report showed.

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—Russian troops have captured the East Prussian highway center of Goldap, 18 miles inside Germany, and have broadened their offensive along the entire eastern boundary of the province, the German communique said today.

"Deep penetrations" in Nazi lines between Goldap and Suwalki were acknowledged.

The Germans said the front now was 150 airline miles long from besieged Memel, northernmost German claimed city, and Augustov in the Suwalki sector at the southeast corner of East Prussia.

Threat In South

Russian forces introduced a great new threat to the entire German position in southeastern Europe by swiftly developing an attack through northeastern Hungary which, unless checked shortly, can cut the Nazi lifeline between Budapest and Vienna.

An army of cossacks and tanks drove northwest of the fallen Magyar keypoint of Debrecen in the direction of Kassa, which controls the pass into Slovakia and a way through Moravia and Bohemia to Prague, Czechoslovakian capital.

To the north of this attacking group Gen. Ivan Petrov's fourth Ukrainian army appeared ready to join in the assault, exploiting his newly won positions south of the Carpathian mountain passes.

Strong patriot partisan forces in Czechoslovakia awaited the onrushing Soviet armies which today were reported already attacking German communications leading back onto the Bohemian plateau. A joinup of the Czechoslovak and Russian fighting groups appeared imminent.

Red Juncture Soon

With yesterday's announcement of the capture of Nyireghaza, north of Debrecen, and the slaughter of 2,000 Germans, less than 90 miles remained between Petrov's most westward troops in Czechoslovakia and other big Red Army units moving northward in lower Hungary. Farther to the east the distance is even smaller.

The arrival of the Red Army at the frontier of Norway west of captured Petsamo and close to the Nazi naval base at Kilenkes poised the Russians on the threshold of liberating still another nation of Europe from the Nazi yoke. It is expected here the Russians will continue pursuit of the Germans through the northern tip of Norway in an effort to clean up the entire North Cape and liquidate its use by Nazi aircraft for convoy raids.

Although the Red Army high command has remained silent on the Berlin-reported breakthrough into East Prussia, all Moscow awaits confidently for an official Soviet announcement of Russian entry into Reich territory there.

Hold Memorial For Sgt. Rentzel

Floor's Lutheran church was filed to capacity Sunday morning for the memorial services for Sgt. Leroy Rentzel of Biglerville, a member of the church, who was killed in action in France on September 18. Many floral tributes to the young man, first member of the church and first member of the Cashown fire company to give his life in this war.

The Rev. Paul Gladfelter, Jacobus, York county, and the Rev. A. R. Longenecker, Gettysburg supply pastors at Floor's conducted the service. The Rev. Mr. Gladfelter delivered the memorial sermon and conducted ritual service of the Lutheran church. The Rev. Mr. Longenecker gave a brief sketch of Sgt. Rentzel's life and then read the Twenty-third Psalm.

A gold star has been placed on the church service flag in memory of Sergeant Rentzel.

Sgt. Ray E. Golden Arrives In Virginia

S. Sgt. Ray E. Golden, 23, who received the Purple Heart for injuries received in the crash of a Liberator bomber in Italy, arrived somewhere in Virginia Sunday, according to word received by his wife, Mrs. Helen Golden, 344 Baltimore street.

Sgt. Golden, who served as a ball turret gunner on the bomber, was on his fiftieth and last mission when the crash occurred. He had been overseas about eight months. Previous to his induction he was employed at the Gettysburg furniture factory.

He is expected to arrive at his home on a furlough later this week.

By MURLIN SPENCER
General MacArthur's Headquarters, Leyte, Philippines, Oct. 23 (AP)—American troops steadily advanced along an 18 mile front on Leyte island today against Japanese retreating to the west as Tacloban became the temporary capital of the first free government of the Philippines in more than two years.

As his troops pressed forward, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced preparations already are under way for construction of a great base for future operations around the captured airbases of Tacloban and Dulag.

The supply problem for Japan's vicious 16th Division already is becoming difficult after their "preliminary defeat" and should they be forced into the hills might become acute, Gen. MacArthur said in his communique today.

Prelude To Freedom

The role of this strategic island, in the heart of the Philippines, was underlined by the announcement that work has commenced on the two captured airfields and other installations to prepare "a great base for all arms for future operations."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur and President Sergio Osmena inaugurated the Philippine commonwealth government's authority in liberated territory during a dramatic ceremony at Tacloban, designated as the temporary capital. They addressed the rest of the subjugated Philippines, as well as the United States, while gunfire echoed in the background.

American forces have landed, said the general in a proclamation "as a prelude to the liberation of the entire territory of the Philippines."

Voids Jap Laws

He declared "null and void" the laws of the Japanese-sponsored "republic" in liberated areas. He promised extension of commonwealth authority, under the United States government, to other Philippine regions as quickly as they are freed and military considerations permit.

The announcement concerning the enemy's supply problems apparently referred to the effect of paralyzing aerial blows against communication lines and flank Japanese bases. These strikes continued, with bombers hitting other Visayan islands, surrounding Leyte, and Mindanao as well as more distant bases.

In return, the Japanese made "minor ineffectual" air raids against American shipping in the Gulf of Leyte.

Blast Mindanao

Bomber raids on other Visayan islands sank three small freighters and probably sank four others. Heavy units blasted Mindanao with 94 tons of explosives, starting fires at Cagayan, principal port and transportation center in the northern part of the island. No opposition was encountered there.

Fighters strafed a 23-truck convoy on Sayre highway, Mindanao, and medium bombers destroyed barracks and float planes in the interior.

Other raids included fire-killing attacks on Balikpapan, Borneo oil center, by night reconnaissance planes.

TO TELL STORY OF PRISON CAMP

The Rev. Minor W. Myers, of Bridgewater, Va., a Church of the Brethren missionary in China for many years, will be the speaker at a special service at 8 o'clock tonight in the local Church of the Brethren church, the Rev. W. N. Zolner, pastor, announced.

The Rev. Mr. Myers, returned early this spring from China, where he had been held captive by the Japs since the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor and their overrunning of a greater portion of China.

The Virginian was taken prisoner along with other missionaries in an exchange arrangement and returned to this country on the Gripsholm, Swedish prisoner-exchange ship which has made many ocean trips carrying repatriated Americans.

The Rev. Mr. Myers will describe the horrors of his captivity by the Japs in his talk tonight. It is open to the public.

The Junior Red Cross membership campaign which opened last Tuesday in the county schools is continuing this week. Today Mrs. Beidler is showing a motion picture, "Hand in Hand," to the children of the East Berlin schools. The film shows activities of Junior Red Cross groups in various schools and communities, work which is done for the National Children's fund and the reception of gifts by children overseas.

Mrs. Beidler, a field representative of the Junior Red Cross will speak Wednesday at the York Springs and Gettysburg high schools. The "Hand in Hand" film will be shown at York Springs although a different motion picture will be presented at the Gettysburg high school.

A further contributions and membership report will be made later in the week.

JUDGE REVEALS BIBLE STORIES NOT "LEGEND"

"More than 10,000 inscriptions have been unearthed by archaeological expeditions and not one of them has disproved a line of the Bible story," Judge William M. Hargest, president judge of the common pleas court of Dauphin county and an elder in the Market Square Presbyterian church, Harrisburg, asserted in his Layman's Day address in the local Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

His theme was "Recent Proofs of Old Testament History." He declared that discoveries by archaeologists have "forced the retreat" of those students of ancient times, many of them German, who had labelled many of the Old Testament stories as "legends."

He cited many instances in which the historical accuracy of Old Testament writers has been confirmed by cuneiform and hieroglyphic writings covering or referring to the span of years that included many of the most notable stories and events of the Old Testament.

Prove Bible Truths

A Babylonian account of the flood coincides with the Mosaic record, he said. Silt deposits that have been uncovered have further substantiated the fact of the flood while other "finds" in modern times have borne out the biblical accounts of the movement of the children of Israel from Egypt, the fall of Jericho, the episodes of the fiery furnace, the lions' den in the book of Daniel, the crossing of the Jordan and many others.

Judge Karl E. Richards, president judge of the Dauphin county orphans court, conducted the worship service and Judge W. C. Sheely, president judge of the courts of Adams and Fulton counties, presided. Judge Richards also is an elder of the Market Square church and Judge Sheely is an elder in the local church.

The Gettysburg Businessmen's chorus of 17 voices sang two anthems, "Strong in Thy Strength, O Jesus," and "Nearer to Thee."

The guest organist was the Rev. John E. Sanderson.

Judge Sheely Lauded

Layman's Sunday was designated by the Presbyterian church and in the words of Judge Sheely was intended "to show the world that laymen are vitally interested in the work of the church."

Judge Sheely introduced the visiting jurists as men "recognized as the finest judges in Pennsylvania" and spoke of his high personal regard for them.

Judge Hargest, speaking for himself and Judge Richards, acknowledged the assistance Judge Sheely has given them in handling the great volume of business in Dauphin county court and added "We have come to love him for his fine, very fine, qualities of mind and heart."

BULLETINS

Staunton, Va., Oct. 23 (AP)

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, commanding the American Seventh Army in France, notified his wife here today that their son, Capt. Alexander M. Patch, 3rd, 24, has been killed in action.

The radiogram handled through the War Department said: "Mac killed instantly yesterday while assaulting enemy positions in France." Capt. Patch, the general's son, had just returned to duty after treatment for wounds received Aug. 28. Commissioned from West Point in 1942, he had been overseas this year with the 79th Division in command of a rifle company. His wife and young son reside at Evanston, Ill.

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 23 (Via Army Radio) (AP)—

American soldiers, pushing westward on Leyte Island's southern front, today overran strong Japanese defense positions and were trying to trap enemy troops retreating up the wide Leyte valley.

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain today recognized the De Gaulle administration as the "provisional government of the French republic."

Moscow radio reported that Soviet Russia had taken the same step, and similar announcements came from Ottawa and Canberra.

General MacArthur's headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 22 (Delayed)—(AP)—Pfc. Isaac B. Hagine, Freeport, Pa., was one of the first 83 American prisoners of war to be rescued from the Philippines. The Americans were on a torpedoed enemy transport and were hidden by guerrillas until removed from the islands.

Americans Advance On Leyte; Gains In Hungary, Holland

(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 23—Field Marshal Montgomery's stepped up offensive in Belgium and Holland is making good headway, supreme headquarters said today in confirming the capture of Breskens in the Schelde pocket.

Field dispatches said the west side of the British salient in Holland spouted steel along a 12-mile front today after a third British column jumped off at midnight last night and with two other spearheads was fast approaching the vital German communications hub of Hertogenbosch. The Allied attack there was launched early yesterday morning.

The communiques said Allied forces are clearing the enemy from the Wurselen area, northeast of Aachen where approximately 1,500 prisoners were taken when fighting in the city ceased.

Patton On Move

To the south Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army pressed a new offensive 18 miles east of the French city Nancy. Fighting continued in Maizieres les Metz while further south gains were reported in the area of Bezange, Coincourt and Emmerhail, northeast and east of Lunerville.

Northeast of Epinal, gains were made against heavy resistance. East of the city a concentration of enemy troops was hit by fighter-bombers. Heavy pressure was maintained against the enemy in the Vosges region.

Struck by a series of Allied attacks along the whole western front from the Netherlands to the Belfort Gap area, the Germans sent their flying bombs against frontline targets for the first time yesterday.

Nazis Use Robombs

Robots were seen over positions of the American First Army, but it is believed the flying bombs do not have sufficient accuracy to make them of any real value on the battlefield.

The Canadian First Army rolled the Germans farther back above Antwerp, taking Eschen after an 11-mile advance. This victory bolstered the Allied grip on the narrow causeway to the west leading to the Schelde estuary lands, where German guns have denied Allied ships the sea lane to Antwerp. Eschen, on the Belgian-Dutch border, is 16 miles north of Antwerp.

The Canadians were pushing north toward the German strongpoints of Bergen op Zoom, Roosendaal, Breda and Tilburg. It is in this sector that the Germans are believed to have concentrated large portions of their 100,000 to 150,000 troops estimated to be holding in western Holland.

Canadians Advance

The Canadians scored still a second victory in their drive to clear Antwerp's approaches when they captured the ferry port of Breskens near the mouth of the Schelde estuary and swept on a half-mile farther into old Fort Frederik-Hendrik.

Compressing still more the German pocket in the Breskens area the Canadians drove within a half-mile of Schoondijke below Breskens, and within a mile of Oostburg, southwest of Schoondijke.

POLICE PROBE TWO ACCIDENTS

State police from the local substation investigated two automobile accidents, one involving approximately $450 damage, over the week-end.

A truck driven by Ernest Jenkins, Newark, New Jersey, struck a car driven by George H. Parks, Bethlehem, on Mount Newman after going out of control when the brakes failed Saturday evening about 7:15 o'clock. Police said Jenkins told them that after the brake failure his truck ran into a ditch beside the road and traveled downhill, striking a concrete abutment. The impact threw the truck across the highway striking the left rear of Parks' automobile which was going up the grade. Damage to the truck was estimated at $400, while that to the car was about $50.

In the second accident, an automobile driven by Donald Julius, Dover R. D., ran off a back road on East Berlin R. 1, and ran into a fence on the property of Ada Berkeimer. Damage to the car was estimated at $25 while the fence was injured to the extent of approximately $10, the police report showed.

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—

Russian troops have captured the East Prussian highway center of Goldap, 18 miles inside Germany, and have broadened their offensive along the entire eastern boundary of the province, the German communiques said today.

"Deep penetrations" in Nazi lines between Goldap and Suwalki were acknowledged.

The Germans said the front now was 150 airline miles long from besieged Memel, northernmost German claimed city, and Augustow in the Suwalki sector at the southeast corner of East Prussia.

Threat In South

Russian forces introduced a great new threat to the entire German position in southeastern Europe by swiftly developing an attack through northeastern Hungary which, unless checked shortly, can cut the Nazi lifeline between Budapest and Vienna.

An army of cossacks and tanks drove northwest of the fallen Magyar keypoint of Debrecen in the direction of Kassa, which controls the pass into Slovakia and a way through Moravia and Bohemia to Prague, Czechoslovakian capital.

To the north of this attacking group Gen. Ivan Petrov's fourth Ukrainian army appeared ready to join in the assault, exploiting his newly won positions south of the Carpathian mountain passes.

Strong patriot partisan forces in Czechoslovakia awaited the onrushing Soviet armies which today were reported already attacking German communications leading back onto the Bohemian plateau. A joinup of the Czechoslovak and Russian fighting groups appeared imminent.

Red Juncture Soon

With yesterday's announcement of the capture of Nyiregyhaza, north of Debrecen, and the slaughter of 2,000 Germans, less than 90 miles remained between Petrov's most westward troops in Czechoslovakia and other big Red Army units moving northward in lower Hungary. Farther to the east the distance is even smaller.

The arrival of the Red Army at the frontier of Norway west of captured Petsamo and close to the Nazi Naval base at Kirkenes poised the Russians on the threshold of liberating still another nation of Europe from the Nazi yoke. It is expected here the Russians will continue pursuit of the Germans through the northern tip of Norway in an effort to clean up the entire North Cape and liquidate its use by Nazi aircraft for convoy raids.

Although the Red Army high command has remained silent on the Berlin-reported breakthrough into East Prussia, all Moscow awaits confidently for an official Soviet announcement of Russian entry into Reich territory there.

Hold Memorial For Sgt. Rentzel

Flohr's Lutheran church was filled to capacity Sunday morning for the memorial services for Sgt. Leroy Rentzel of Biglerville, a member of the church, who was killed in action in France on September 16. Many floral tributes to the young man, first member of the church and first member of the Cashtown fire company to give his life in this war.

Mr. Gladfelter delivered the memorial sermon and conducted ritual service of the Lutheran church. The Rev. Mr. Longanecker gave a brief sketch of Sgt. Rentzel's life and then read the Twenty-third Psalm.

A gold star has been placed on the church service flag in memory of Sergeant Rentzel.

He is expected to arrive at his home on a furlough later this week.

By MURLIN SPENCER

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Leyte, Philippines, Oct. 23 (AP)—American troops steadily advanced along an 18 mile front on Leyte island today against Japanese retreating to the west as Tacloban became the temporary capital of the first free government of the Philippines in more than two years.

As his troops pressed forward, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced preparations already are under way for construction of a great base for future operations around the captured air-dromes of Tacloban and Dulag.

The supply problem for Japan's vicious 16th Division already is becoming difficult after their "preliminary defeat" and should they be forced into the hills might become acute, Gen. MacArthur said in his communique today.

Prelude To Freedom

The role of this strategic island, in the heart of the Philippines, was underlined by the announcement that work has commenced on the two captured airfields and other installations to prepare "a great base for all arms for future operations."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur and President Sergio Osmena inaugurated the Philippine commonwealth government's authority in liberated territory during a dramatic ceremony at Tacloban, designated as the temporary capital. They addressed the rest of the subjugated Philippines, as well as the United States, while gunfire echoed in the background.

American forces have landed, said the general in a proclamation "as a prelude to the liberation of the entire territory of the Philippine."

Volts Jap Laws

He declared "null and void" the laws of the Japanese-sponsored "republic" in liberated areas. He promised extension of commonwealth authority, under the United States government, to other Philippine regions as quickly as they are freed and military considerations permit.

The announcement concerning the enemy's supply problems apparently referred to the effect of paralyzing aerial blows against communication lines and flank Japanese bases. These strikes continued, with bombers hitting other Visayan islands, surrounding Leyte, and Mindanao as well as more distant bases.

In return, the Japanese made "minor ineffectual" air raids against American shipping in the Gulf of Leyte.

Blast Mindanao

Bomber raids on other Visayan islands sank three small freighters and probably sank four others. Heavy units blasted Mindanao with 94 tons of explosives, starting fires at Cagayan, principal port and transportation center in the northern part of the island. No opposition was encountered there.

Fighters strafed a 23-truck convoy on Sayre highway, Mindanao, and medium bombers destroyed barracks and float planes in the interior. Other raids included fire-killing attacks on Balikpapan, Borneo oil center, by night reconnaissance planes.

TO TELL STORY OF PRISON CAMP

The Rev. Minor W. Myers, of Bridgewater, Va., a Church of the Brethren missionary in China for many years, will be the speaker at a special service at 8 o'clock tonight in the local Church of the Brethren church, the Rev. W. N. Zabler, pastor, announced.

The Rev. Mr. Myers, returned early this spring from China, where he had been held captive by the Japs since the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor and their overrunning of a greater portion of China.

The Virginian was taken prisoner along with other missionaries in Tientsin, Province of Shansi, North China. He was repatriated along with other Americans in an exchange arrangement and returned to this country on the Gripsholm, Swedish prisoner-exchange ship which has made many ocean trips carrying repatriated Americans.

The Rev. Mr. Myers will describe the horrors of his captivity by the Japs in his talk tonight. It is open to the public.

Americans Use Many Kinds Of Guidemarks On Hostile Country

By HAL BOYLE
(Advance)—With An American Unit in Germany, Oct. 13—(Delayed)—(AP)—You learn to use all kinds of guidemarks to find your path in this hostile country.

Lt. Thomas D. Rodman, of Sparta, Ill., a reconnaissance officer who has been out in front all the way across France, Belgium and into Germany was out checking patrols recently. It was so dark he could hardly see the end of his rifle.

Stumbling back into the command post sometime before midnight he complained:

"Damn those engineers. They went and buried that old dead cow and smoothed out the road where I have been turning left and I didn't smell him and wandered all over the place before I could find him."

Dangerous Experience
Lt. E. Hulen Denton of Casper, Wyoming, had a more dangerous experience as a result of tampering "by person or persons unknown" with the road signs along the German-Holland border.

"He left at night to go to the command posts of some forward troops," said Lt. Robert M. Batley, of Detroit, Ill., "and he noted by the map that its position had not been changed. But the signs leading to it had."

"Denton drove seven miles following the signs and knew he was going too far. He stopped and lit his flashlight at an intersection to try to find his way and the Germans opened up on him with three rifles and one burp gun. He had driven right past our lines into enemy territory."

"He put out his flashlight, jumped into the jeep and escaped. Later we checked and found the direction of four signs leading to the command post had been changed. There have been several such instances."

Eager To Quit
Pvt. Ray Towson, Cleveland, O., reconnaissance motorcycle rider, wanted to see if his carbine was working properly. He was only a short distance from the bivouac area so he fired a test bullet into a hedge. Out came two Germans with their hands held high and their knees shaking. They led the surprised private to two more Germans and he brought all four in.

No telling how many he might have got with aimed fire.

Sgt. Guy W. Sanborn of South Minneapolis, Minn., is wearing the silver star because he was too stubborn to obey an order to withdraw hot battle action to a better position.

Stays With Buddy
He would not pull back with the rest of his light machine gun squad because he was treating a wounded comrade. He stuck to his task through heavy enemy small arms fire. Then disregarding the bullets kicking the earth around him, he picked up the wounded man and carried him 50 yards over open ground to shelter.

Now he has a medal to remember that walk.

The army's cooperation with the press in getting back to American newspapers stories on the activities of individual soldiers is bearing fruit in improved morale.

Most troop commanders know what a boost it is to both officers and men to see their name in print in the home town paper. It makes them feel they're appreciated by the community they left behind.

The latest to testify to this effect is Capt. Asa Barnard, Glenville, Ga., an officer in a front-line armored battalion. Writing on the "splendid results" obtained by news accounts of the battalion's fighting he said, "many clippings have been received by personnel in the battalion and the morale effect is remarkable."

SOLDIER DIES IN ENGLAND

Mrs. Beulah Grogg, Hanover, received a War Department telegram Saturday informing her that her son, Pvt. Jesse Grogg, died in England September 30. No details were given and the family does not know whether death was due to illness or injury.

Pvt. Grogg had been overseas less than a month. He entered the Army March 3, 1942, and trained at Camp Swift, Tex.; Fort Benning, Ga.; Camp Mackall, N. C., and Camp Pickett, Va.

A paratrooper, Pvt. Grogg was stationed at Fort Meade, Md., for a brief time before going overseas. He was home for a furlough during the third week in August and went to England shortly thereafter.

Pvt. Grogg was a member of Hanover Fire company No. 1. He was affiliated with Hanover post, 2506, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Before going into the armed forces, he was a member of the VFW drum and bugle corps.

Surviving are the parents and following brothers and sisters: Cpl. Isaac H. Grogg, Jr., in the Pacific area; Leroy E. Grogg, York; Mrs. Geraldine Simpson, York; Mrs. Anna Goucker Hanover, and Mrs. Martha Crushong, Littlestown.

Exhume Remains Of 3 Victims In Fire; Open Probe

A three-way investigation of the fire last March 8 that claimed the lives of a 74-year-old blind woman, her 24-year-old niece and the latter's infant son, aged 17 months, reached a climax this morning when the small white coffin containing charred remains of the three victims was exhumed in Union cemetery at Fairfield.

State police, District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Dr. C. G. Crist, county coroner, Sheriff John E. Millhimes, Deputy Sheriff B. E. Bixler, and Dr. C. Harold Johnson, pathologist at the Warner hospital, were on hand for the removal of the three-foot coffin and rough box from the small grave.

Doctor Johnson Examines Bones
The coffin was taken to the S. L. Allison funeral home in Fairfield, from which it had been buried on March 9, the day after the fire, and there the casket was opened and Doctor Johnson began examination of the contents under flood lights placed by a state police photographer.

The fire under investigation, first by state police as a routine fire probe, and then later on a wider basis when undisclosed circumstances developed, cost the lives of Mrs. Margaret Smith, 74; her niece, Mrs. Violet McKee, and the latter's child, Billy Leroy McKee.

Only occupants of the frame and log dwelling at Iron Springs to escape from the flames were Percy Smith, 41, son of the aged woman who was burned, and four-year-old Mary Alice McKee, sister of the infant that burned.

The exhuming this morning was carried out under the authority of a court order handed down several weeks ago and promptly impounded to maintain the secrecy that has marked the investigation.

First In County
Opening of the grave at Fairfield was the first such instance in this county within the memory of officials present for the operation.

District Attorney Yake would not say what Doctor Johnson's preliminary examination of the remains found in the coffin disclosed today but said that a thorough analysis of the charred fragments will be made—probably by state chemists.

At the time of the blaze, the cause of which was never determined, Fairfield firemen and the Fairfield funeral director, S. L. Allison, removed charred objects from the ruins which they believed at the time to be the torso of the infant with the head and arms and legs missing, and other fragments which they thought were parts of the bodies of the two women.

All of the remains were placed in the single three-foot coffin and were interred at common rites the morning of March 9. The rough box and coffin were in good condition this morning after having been buried for more than seven months.

Victims Trapped
The state police investigation has been directed by Jack Arms, special investigator from the state fire marshal's office, with Private Harold K. Trout of the Gettysburg detail of the state police assisting. The offices of the district attorney and the coroner have given "full co-operation" to the probe.

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 23 (Via Army Radio) (AP)—American soldiers, pushing westward on Leyte Island's southern front, today overran strong Japanese defense positions and were trying to trap enemy troops retreating up the wide Leyte valley.

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain today recognized the De Gaulle administration as the "provisional government of the French republic."

Moscow radio reported that Soviet Russia had taken the same step, and similar announcements came from Ottawa and Canberra.

General MacArthur's headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 22 (Delayed)—(AP)—Pfc. Isaac B. Hagine, Freeport, Pa., was one of the first 83 American prisoners of war to be rescued from the Philippines. The Americans were on a torpedoed enemy transport and were hidden by guerrillas until removed from the islands.

Americans Advance On Leyte; Gains In Hungary, Holland

(By The Associated Press)
London, Oct. 23—Field Marshal Montgomery's stepped up offensive in Belgium and Holland is making good headway, supreme headquarters said today in confirming the capture of Breskens in the Schelde pocket.

Field dispatches said the west side of the British salient in Holland spouted steel along a 12-mile front today after a third British column jumped off at midnight last night and with two other spearheads was fast approaching the vital German communications hub of Hertogenbosch. The Allied attack there was launched early yesterday morning.

The communiqué said Allied forces are clearing the enemy from the Wurselen area, north-east of Aachen where approximately 1,600 prisoners were taken when fighting in the city ceased.

Patton On Move

To the south Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army pressed a new offensive 18 miles east of the French city Nancy. Fighting continued in Maizières les Metz while further south gains were reported in the area of Bezange, Coincourt and Emmerhilt, northeast and east of Lunéville.

Northeast of Epinal, gains were made against heavy resistance. East of the city a concentration of enemy troops was hit by fighter-bombers. Heavy pressure was maintained against the enemy in the Vosges region.

Struck by a series of Allied attacks along the whole western front from the Netherlands to the Belfort Gap area, the Germans sent their flying bombs against frontline targets for the first time yesterday.

Nazis Use Robombs

Robots were seen over positions of the American First Army, but it is believed the flying bombs do not have sufficient accuracy to make them of any real value on the battlefield.

The Canadian First Army rolled the Germans farther back above Antwerp, taking Essen after an 11-mile advance. This victory bolstered the Allied grip on the narrow causeway to the west leading to the Schelde estuary islands, where German guns have denied Allied ships the sea lane to Antwerp. Essen, on the Belgian-Dutch border, is 16 miles north of Antwerp.

The Canadians were pushing north toward the German strongpoints of Bergen op Zoom, Roosendaal, Breda and Tilburg. It is in this sector that the Germans are believed to have concentrated large portions of their 100,000 to 150,000 troops estimated to be holding in western Holland.

Canadians Advance

The Canadians scored still a second victory in their drive to clear Antwerp's approaches when they captured the ferry port of Breskens near the mouth of the Schelde estuary and swept on a half-mile farther into old Fort Frederik-Hendrik.

Compressing still more the German pocket in the Breskens area the Canadians drove within a half-mile of Schoondijke below Breskens, and within a mile of Oostburg, southwest of Schoondijke.

POLICE PROBE TWO ACCIDENTS

State police from the local substation investigated two automobile accidents, one involving approximately $450 damage, over the weekend.

A truck driven by Ernest Jenkins, Newark, New Jersey, struck a car driven by George H. Parks, Bethlehem, on Mount Newman after going out of control when the brakes failed Saturday evening about 7:15 o'clock. Police said Jenkins told them that after the brake failure his truck ran into a ditch beside the road and traveled downhill, striking a concrete abutment. The impact threw the truck across the highway striking the left rear of Parks' automobile which was going up the grade. Damage to the truck was estimated at $400, while that to the car was about $50.

In the second accident, an automobile driven by Donald Julius, Dover R. D., ran off a back road on East Berlin R. 1, and ran into a fence on the property of Ada Berkheimer. Damage to the car was estimated at $25 while the fence was injured to the extent of approximately $10, the police report showed.

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—Russian troops have captured the East Prussian highway center of Goldap, 18 miles inside Germany, and have broadened their offensive along the entire eastern boundary of the province, the German communiqué said today.

"Deep penetrations" in Nazi lines between Goldap and Suwalki were acknowledged.

The Germans said the front now was 150 airline miles long from besieged Memel, northernmost German claimed city, and Augustow in the Suwalki sector at the southeast corner of East Prussia.

Threat In South

Russian forces introduced a great new threat to the entire German position in southeastern Europe by swiftly developing an attack through northeastern Hungary which, unless checked shortly, can cut the Nazi lifeline between Budapest and Vienna.

An army of cossacks and tanks drove northwest of the fallen Magyar keypoint of Debrecen in the direction of Kassa, which controls the pass into Slovakia and a way through Moravia and Bohemia to Prague, Czechoslovakian capital. To the north of this attacking group Gen. Ivan Petrov's fourth Ukrainian army appeared ready to join in the assault, exploiting his newly won positions south of the Carpathian mountain passes.

Strong patriot partisan forces in Czechoslovakia awaited the onrushing Soviet armies which today were reported already attacking German communications leading back onto the Bohemian plateau. A juncture of the Czechoslovak and Russian fighting groups appeared imminent.

Red Juncture Soon

With yesterday's announcement of the capture of Nyiregyhaza, north of Debrecen, and the slaughter of 2,000 Germans, less than 90 miles remained between Petrov's most westward troops in Czechoslovakia and other big Red Army units moving northward in lower Hungary. Farther to the east the distance is even smaller.

The arrival of the Red Army at the frontier of Norway west of captured Petsamo and close to the Nazi Naval base at Kirkenes poised the Russians on the threshold of liberating still another nation of Europe from the Nazi yoke. It is expected here the Russians will continue pursuit of the Germans through the northern tip of Norway in an effort to clean up the entire North Cape and liquidate its use by Nazi aircraft for convoy raids.

Although the Red Army high command has remained silent on the Berlin-reported breakthrough into East Prussia, all Moscow awaits confidently for an official Soviet announcement of Russian entry into Reich territory there.

By MURLIN SPENCER

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Leyte, Philippines, Oct. 23 (AP)—American troops steadily advanced along an 18 mile front on Leyte island today against Japanese retreating to the west as Tacloban became the temporary capital of the first free government of the Philippines in more than two years.

As his troops pressed forward, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced preparations already are under way for construction of a great base for future operations around the captured airdromes of Tacloban and Dulag.

The supply problem for Japan's vicious 16th Division already is becoming difficult after their "preliminary defeat" and should they be forced into the hills might become acute, Gen. MacArthur said in his communiqué today.

Prelude To Freedom

The role of this strategic island, in the heart of the Philippines, was underlined by the announcement that work has commenced on the two captured airfields and other installations to prepare "a great base for all arms for future operations."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur and President Sergio Osmena inaugurated the Philippine commonwealth government's authority in liberated territory during a dramatic ceremony at Tacloban, designated as the temporary capital. They addressed the rest of the subjugated Philippines, as well as the United States, while gunfire echoed in the background.

American forces have landed, said the general in a proclamation "as a prelude to the liberation of the entire territory of the Philippine."

Yields Jap Laws

He declared "null and void" the laws of the Japanese-sponsored "republic" in liberated areas. He promised extension of commonwealth authority, under the United States government, to other Philippine regions as quickly as they are freed and military considerations permit.

The announcement concerning the enemy's supply problems apparently referred to the effect of paralyzing aerial blows against communication lines and flank Japanese bases. These strikes continued, with bombers hitting other Visayan islands, surrounding Leyte, and Mindanao as well as more distant bases.

In return, the Japanese made "minor ineffectual" air raids against American shipping in the Gulf of Leyte.

Blast Mindanao

Bomber raids on other Visayan islands sank three small freighters and probably sank four others. Heavy units blasted Mindanao with 94 tons of explosives, starting fires at Cagayan, principal port and transportation center in the northern part of the island. No opposition was encountered there.

Fighters strafed a 23-truck convoy on Sayre highway, Mindanao, and medium bombers destroyed barracks and float planes in the interior.

Other raids included fire-killing attacks on Balikpapan, Borneo oil center, by night reconnaissance planes.

TO TELL STORY OF PRISON CAMP

The Rev. Minor W. Myers, of Bridgewater, Va., a Church of the Brethren missionary in China for many years, will be the speaker at a special service at 8 o'clock tonight in the local Church of the Brethren church, the Rev. W. N. Zabler, pastor, announced.

The Rev. Mr. Myers returned early this spring from China, where he had been held captive by the Japs since the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor and their overrunning of a greater portion of China.

The Virginian was taken prisoner along with other missionaries in Tientsin, Province of Shansi, North China. He was repatriated along with other Americans in an exchange arrangement and returned to this country on the Gripsholm, Swedish prisoner-exchange ship which has made many ocean trips carrying repatriated Americans.

The Rev. Mr. Myers will describe the horrors of his captivity by the Japs in his talk tonight. It is open to the public.

ALLIES TO BUST JAP CONQUESTS IN PHILIPPINES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
MacArthur's dramatic and successful return to the Philippines smashes the way of the Allied task in the Pacific, since the battle for these islands is the prelude to the final struggle for Japan itself without the Philippines the Mikado's ill-gotten empire of conquests will fall to pieces.

Once the American forces have overrun Leyte, which is strategically situated almost in the heart of the archipelago, and have established powerful air-bases, they will be able to sweep the rest of the islands with bombers. Today's reports show our men firmly established and smashing ahead with the job of clearing the island. The Japanese 16th division, the Barbans who tortured so many Yankee boys to death on Bataan, have taken to the hills—and wait until we get at 'em!

Plan Is Secret
General MacArthur declares in his proclamation to the Filipinos that the Americans have come as "liberators for the entire Philippine archipelago." How he will proceed in the liberation is the secret of the high command, but presumably he will move northward into the great island of Luzon, unless developments change the picture. Luzon, where lies Manila, is the key which can unlock the Mikado's defenses.

From this most northern of the Philippines the Allies can dominate Japan's communications to her essential war supplies—like rubber and oil—in the East Indies. They can, by the same token, cut off from the homeland hundreds of thousands of Japanese troops in Indonesia and Burma. They can neutralize the powerful air-caval base of Formosa, which is one of the chief shields of Nippon. They can reach the southeast coast of China to establish bases to aid the hard-hit Chinese, and from these bases they can send bombers to rip at the vitals of Japan.

Hard Road Ahead
All that sounds mighty good—and it is good. However, let's not permit it to mislead us. As things now stand, it's a bloody route to Tokyo. The conquest of the Philippines in itself bids fair to be one of the greatest engagements of the entire world war.

That much is certain. The fight may also prove to be not only tough but long. However, the length of the war depends on developments and is highly speculative. It doesn't necessarily follow that we shall have a long war simply because it's a tough one.

Anyway, whether it's long or short there's this satisfaction to be got out of the necessity of dismembering the Japanese empire bit by bit: When we've finished with these savages, who would conquer the whole world, they'll be impotent to make war for generations.

Britain Sends Fleet
While we are talking about taking the Mikado's empire to pieces, it's important to note that, coincident with the American invasion of the Philippines, London announced that part of a British fleet strong enough to deal with the whole Japanese Navy was enroute to the Far East. So much for recent speculation as to whether the British intend to see the war against Japan through to a finish. Of course they do. There never was any legitimate doubt of it.

Great preparations are under way in India for the all-out war against Japan. In this connection it has been disclosed that there are two and a quarter million Indian troops under arms, ready for action. With the end of the rainy monsoon season operations in Burma and the Bay of Bengal are picking up. Now the British three day assault on the important Nicobar Islands which are held by the Japs and must be captured to pave the way for more extensive operations.

These developments are tremendously heartening for the gallant Chinese, who are hanging on in the skin of their teeth.

MYSTERY VEILS QUESTION OF WILLKIE STAND

Rushville, Ind., Oct. 23 (AP)—The question of which presidential candidate Wendell L. Willkie would have supported emerged today as one of the most engrossing political mysteries of the 1944 campaign.

Willkie, originally a Democrat, commanded the greatest voting appeal of any Republican presidential candidate in history as GOP presidential standard bearer in 1940. Thus, the significance of the question lies in the possibility that Willkie had taken a stand on the presidential race he may have influenced enough of the 22,304,755 Willkie voters of 1940 to have decided the election November 7.

The question may remain forever unanswered.

No Decision Says Widow
Mrs. Edith Willkie, his widow, said in a statement at her Rushville home: "I am sure he had not made his decision."

Russell W. Davenport, Willkie's campaign manager in 1940, said last night in a nationwide broadcast from New York that "no one in the world knows what his final position in this election would have been."

Davenport expressed his own opinion, however, that President Roosevelt "has worked and is working with the determination and fore-sight toward that point on the compass of destiny where I believe America must go."

Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut said at Hartford, Conn.: "Willkie had told him: 'Well, you can rely on one thing. I will not support the President in his campaign for a fourth term.'"

H. Fred Willkie of Louisville, Ky., said only a few hours after his brother's death on October 8 that the 1940 presidential candidate would have "come out in favor of Governor Dewey."

Asks End of Speculation
That same night Drew Pearson, Washington columnist, said in a broadcast Willkie had told him he was inclined to favor President Roosevelt because of the President's foreign policy.

Mrs. Willkie appealed that all speculation be ended.

"I am distressed," she said, "because many people are saying that they know how Wendell Willkie intended to vote in coming election. 'I am sure he had not made his decision.' 'No one could speak for him while he was living; and I ask out of respect for his memory, that no one should attempt to speak for him now.'"

Hard Road Ahead
All that sounds mighty good—and it is good. However, let's not permit it to mislead us. As things now stand, it's a bloody route to Tokyo. The conquest of the Philippines in itself bids fair to be one of the greatest engagements of the entire world war.

That much is certain. The fight may also prove to be not only tough but long. However, the length of the war depends on developments and is highly speculative. It doesn't necessarily follow that we shall have a long war simply because it's a tough one.

Anyway, whether it's long or short there's this satisfaction to be got out of the necessity of dismembering the Japanese empire bit by bit: When we've finished with these savages, who would conquer the whole world, they'll be impotent to make war for generations.

Britain Sends Fleet
While we are talking about taking the Mikado's empire to pieces, it's important to note that, coincident with the American invasion of the Philippines, London announced that part of a British fleet strong enough to deal with the whole Japanese Navy was enroute to the Far East. So much for recent speculation as to whether the British intend to see the war against Japan through to a finish. Of course they do. There never was any legitimate doubt of it.

Great preparations are under way in India for the all-out war against Japan. In this connection it has been disclosed that there are two and a quarter million Indian troops under arms, ready for action. With the end of the rainy monsoon season operations in Burma and the Bay of Bengal are picking up. Note the British three day assault on the important Nicobar Islands which are held by the Japs and must be occupied to pave the way for more extensive operations.

These developments are tremendously heartening for the gallant Chinese, who are hanging on by the skin of their teeth.

MYSTERY VEILS QUESTION OF WILLKIE STAND

Rushville, Ind., Oct. 23 (AP)—The question of which presidential candidate Wendell L. Willkie would have supported emerged today as one of the most engrossing political mysteries of the 1944 campaign.

Willkie, originally a Democrat, commanded the greatest voting appeal of any Republican presidential candidate in history as GOP presidential standard bearer in 1940. Thus, the significance of the question lies in the possibility that if Willkie had taken a stand on the presidential race he may have influenced enough of the 22,304,755 Willkie voters of 1940 to have decided the election November 7.

The question may remain forever unanswered.

No Decision Says Widow

Mrs. Edith Willkie, his widow, said in a statement at her Rushville home: "I am sure he had not made his decision."

Russell W. Davenport, Willkie's campaign manager in 1940, said last night in a nationwide broadcast from New York that "no one in the world knows what his final position in this election would have been."

Davenport expressed his own opinion, however, that President Roosevelt "has worked and is working with the determination and fore-sight toward that point on the compass of destiny where I believe America must go."

Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut said at Hartford, Conn., Willkie had told him:

"Well, you can rely on one thing. I will not support the President in his campaign for a fourth term."

H. Fred Willkie of Louisville, Ky., said only a few hours after his brother's death on October 8 that the 1940 presidential candidate would have "come out in favor of Governor Dewey."

Asks End of Speculation

That same night Drew Pearson, Washington columnist, said in a broadcast Willkie had told him he was inclined to favor President Roosevelt because of the President's foreign policy.

Mrs. Willkie appealed that all speculation be ended.

"I am distressed," she said, "because many people are saying that they know how Wendell Willkie intended to vote in coming election."

"I am sure he had not made his decision. "No one could speak for him while he was living; and I ask, out of respect for his memory, that no one should attempt to speak for him now."

operation," it was emphasized this morning.

The victims of the fire were trapped on the second floor of their home, Percy Smith, told investigators. Smith suffered cuts of the hands and severe burns in vain rescue attempts. Mary Alice McKee escaped with singed curls.

At the hospital on the morning of the fire, Smith told a reporter for The Gettysburg Times that he had risen about 5 o'clock that morning and had kindled a fire in the out-kitchen stove where he intended to cook his breakfast and later heat water for the family washing, which was to have been done later in the morning by Mrs. McKee.

He went to another part of the house he said, noticed a light in the out-kitchen and when he opened the door was met by a blast of flames and smoke. The only exit from the home was through that out-kitchen.

Rescues One Child

Smith said he ran to the second floor and met Mrs. McKee going toward the stairway with one child under each arm. Smith said he relieved her of Mary Alice and escaped from the building with her, calling to the others to follow. He never saw them again. He smashed a first floor window and made two trips into the blazing building in unsuccessful efforts to locate other members of the household.

Neighbors arrived and called the Fairfield fire company. They also took Smith to the office of Dr. Ira Henderson at Fairfield and later to the Warner hospital.

ALLIES TO BUST JAP CONQUESTS IN PHILIPPINES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
MacArthur's dramatic and successful return to the Philippines smashes the way of the Allied task in the Pacific, since the battle for these islands is the prelude to the final struggle for Japan itself; without the Philippines the Mikado's ill-got empire of conquests will fall to pieces.

Once the American forces have overrun Leyte, which is strategically situated almost in the heart of the archipelago, and have established powerful air-bases, they will be able to sweep the rest of the islands with bombers. Today's reports show our men firmly established and smashing ahead with the job of clearing the island. The Japanese 16th division, the Barbarians who tortured so many Yankee boys to death on Bataan, have taken to the hills—and wait until we get at 'em!

Plan Is Secret

General MacArthur declares in his proclamation to the Filipinos that the Americans have come as "liberators for the entire Philippine Archipelago." How he will proceed in the liberation is the secret of the high command, but presumably he will move northward into the great island of Luzon, unless developments change the picture. Luzon, whereon lies Manila, is the key which can unlock the Mikado's defenses.

From this most northern of the Philippines the Allies can dominate Japan's communications to her essential war supplies—like rubber and oil—in the East Indies. They can, by the same token, cut off from the homeland hundreds of thousands of Japanese troops in Indonesia and Burma. They can neutralize the powerful air-naval base of Formosa, which is one of the chief shields of Nippon. They can reach the southeast coast of China to establish bases to aid the hard-hit Chinese, and from these bases they can send bombers to rip at the vitals of Japan.

Hard Road Ahead

All that sounds mighty good—and it is good. However, let's not permit it to mislead us. As things now stand, it's a bloody route to Tokyo. The conquest of the Philippines in itself bids fair to be one of the greatest engagements of the entire world war.

MYSTERY VEILS QUESTION OF WILLKIE STAND

Rushville, Ind., Oct. 23 (AP)—The question of which presidential candidate Wendell L. Willkie would have supported emerged today as one of the most engrossing political mysteries of the 1944 campaign.

Willkie, originally a Democrat, commanded the greatest voting appeal of any Republican presidential candidate in history as GOP presidential standard bearer in 1940. Thus, the significance of the question lies in the possibility that if Willkie had taken a stand on the presidential race he may have influenced enough of the 22,304,755 Willkie voters of 1940 to have decided the election November 7.

The question may remain forever unanswered.

No Decision Says Widow

Mrs. Edith Willkie, his widow, said in a statement at her Rushville home: "I am sure he had not made his decision."

Russell W. Davenport, Willkie's campaign manager in 1940, said last night in a nationwide broadcast from New York that "no one in the world knows what his final position in this election would have been."

Davenport expressed his own opinion, however, that President Roosevelt "has worked and is working with the determination and the fore-sight toward that point on the compass of destiny where I believe America must go."

Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut said at Hartford, Conn., Willkie had told him:

"Well, you can rely on one thing. I will not support the President in his campaign for a fourth term."

H. Fred Willkie of Louisville, Ky., said only a few hours after his brother's death on October 8 that the 1940 presidential candidate would have "come out in favor of Governor Dewey."

Asks End of Speculation

That same night Drew Pearson, Washington columnist, said in a broadcast Willkie had told him he was inclined to favor President Roosevelt because of the President's foreign policy.

Mrs. Willkie appealed that all speculation be ended.

"I am distressed," she said, "because many people are saying that they know how Wendell Willkie intended to vote in coming election. I am sure he had not made his decision."

"No one could speak for him while he was living; and I ask, out of respect for his memory, that no one should attempt to speak for him now."

May Reveal Data On Pearl Harbor

Detroit, Oct. 23 (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said today he would demand the appointment of a Senate committee with powers to subpoena witnesses and promptly make public reports of Army and Navy inquiries into Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

operation," it was emphasized this morning.

The victims of the fire were trapped on the second floor of their home, Percy Smith, told investigators. Smith suffered cuts of the hands and severe burns in vain rescue attempts. Mary Alice McKee escaped with singed curls.

At the hospital on the morning of the fire, Smith told a reporter for The Gettysburg Times that he had risen about 5 o'clock that morning and had kindled a fire in the out-kitchen stove where he intended to cook his breakfast and later heat water for the family washing, which was to have been done later in the morning by Mrs. McKee.

He went to another part of the house he said, noticed a light in the out-kitchen and when he opened the door was met by a blast of flames and smoke. The only exit from the home was through that out-kitchen.

Rescues One Child

Smith said he ran to the second floor and met Mrs. McKee going toward the stairway with one child under each arm. Smith said he relieved her of Mary Alice and escaped from the building with her, calling to the others to follow. He never saw them again. He smashed a first floor window and made two trips into the blazing building in unsuccessful efforts to locate other members of the household.

Neighbors arrived and called the Fairfield fire company. They also took Smith to the office of Dr. Ira Henderson at Fairfield and later to the Warner hospital.

Truman Plans Major Address

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 23 (AP)—Senator Harry S. Truman picked Minnesota today for what he said would be an attempt to force Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to "embrace or repudiate the isolationists" to whom he attributed control of the Republican party.

President Roosevelt's fourth term running mate told reporters he would follow up "the chief's" Saturday night attack on the G.O.P. foreign policy stand in a major address at St. Paul, just across the Mississippi river, at 8:30 o'clock EWT tonight.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate expressed keen interest in a Washington dispatch to the Minneapolis Morning Tribune asserting that Senator Ball (R-Minn.) would announce today his choice for president.

The story said Washington observers "expected him (Ball) to declare for President Roosevelt."

FDR PATTERNS CAMPAIGN ON 1940 SCHEDULE

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt, as candidate Roosevelt, will hit the vote-strewn campaign trails of the east again this week with what has been advertised as a speech on business Friday night in Philadelphia's Shibe park.

He also may speak in Chicago Saturday night, but this awaits official announcement. Another address is set for Boston, probably Nov. 4. Cleveland, last stop on his 1940 schedule, may see him before Election Day Nov. 7.

In deciding on an aggressive finish of a campaign that started late, the President is following much the same groove—geographically and otherwise—of his third term spin around the industrial east and mid-west in an effort to nail what he then called "falsification" and what he has termed this time as "fraud" and "falsehood."

Experts See Close Race
Election experts generally say they see a close race in the Nov. 7 voting, with most looking on New York and Pennsylvania to decide the issue with their big bloc of 82 electoral votes.

Gov. Dewey frequently has expressed confidence of victory in speeches. Mr. Roosevelt has not made an open prediction, but he is described by aides as expecting to win. By how much depends on whether he ever opens to public gaze his customary electoral vote guess. He says he has never been right on this yet.

The President topped off his tour through rain-drenched New York streets Saturday with an address there to the Foreign Policy association in which he reiterated that any world peace council must have the power to act quickly, by force if necessary.

Hit GOP Isolationists
He said it is clear the United States representative to the proposed world security council "must be endowed in advance by the people themselves, with constitutional means through their representatives in Congress, with authority to act."

Mr. Roosevelt struck out at those he termed "isolationists" in the Republican party. Apparently dealing with Gov. Dewey's charge that he had conducted "secret, personal diplomacy," the President said the American people knew that both he and Secretary Hull "can not commit this nation to any secret treaties or any secret guarantees which are in violation of the Constitution."

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg—Mrs. Harry Boyle, supervisor of the local Community Canning Center in the high school, announces that the center will be open from 1:30 to 7:30 p. m. each Tuesday. A total of 303 containers of hominy, sweet potatoes, and peas were processed on October 17th. The bookings to date for October 24th are for hominy, peas, and sweet potatoes. On October 27 sauer kraut will be made, and processed later if desired. On October 31 pumpkins, pork and beans, and mince meat will be processed. Mrs. Boyle asks that people communicate with her by telephoning 18 for an allotment of time.

Mrs. Holmes Baker, chairman of the Red Cross surgical dressing group for Frederick county, recently advised Mrs. Harry Boyle, chairman of the local group, that National headquarters has requested that all materials now on hand be worked into bandages and made ready for shipment by December 1. Mrs. Boyle said: "Unless we can secure additional volunteer workers here we cannot possibly finish folding the material which we have. I earnestly hope that a greater number of persons will report at the Lutheran parish house twice each week as previously announced so that we may not be compelled to return some of the material unfolded."

J. A. Wood recently was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Baltimore, and was removed by ambulance to the Baltimore City hospital. His wife, the former Margaret Gillman, their son, Harry, and he have been residing in Baltimore for the past several months, having moved there from Gettysburg. Mrs. Wood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gillman, 224 W. Main street. The son is being cared for by the grandparents here while his mother spends her time at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hahn and daughter, Margaret, of Taneytown, with their son, and daughter-in-law, Sgt. and Mrs. Ray Hahn, Jr., and their son, Wayne, of Morgansfield, Ky., recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hahn at their home near town. Miss Phyllis Hahn visited her home over the week-end accompanied by Miss Katie Smithson of Perryman, Md., and Cadet Wendell Potter of Cambridge, Md., who is a student at Mt. St. Mary's college. The three were classmates at Salisbury college.

Pvt. William Ryder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ryder, 325 North Seton avenue, recently arrived home from Camp Blanding, Fla., on a ten-day furlough before reporting to a new location. His brother Gerald F. Ryder is overseas.

2,000 MINERS IDLE ON STRIKE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—More than 2,000 men at six western Pennsylvania bituminous coal mines were idle today because of a miscellany of grievances.

Meetings of two union locals last night failed to produce back-to-work motion despite a plea for work resumption made in a telegram from John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president.

Employees at the Midland pit of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., near Houston, Washington county, promptly adjourned after the telegram was read. They have been on strike for 11 days because of a dispute concerning seniority rights of three middle men.

Strikers at the same company's Montour No. 18 pit voted to continue a work stoppage which began last Thursday because of a seniority grievance. Workers at the company's Lindley mine are also out in sympathy.

A grievance involving an incident between a motorman and his foreman resulted in a walkout, now in its fourth day, at Cresson mine No. 2, of Republic Steel Corp., near Clairton.

Richard Bennett, Actor, Expires

Los Angeles, Oct. 23 (AP)—Death has taken Richard Bennett, a stage idol and screen character actor, famed for a sharp and witty tongue that enabled him to rebuff and out-argue audiences and make them like it.

His daughters, Constance and Joan Bennett, film actresses, were at his hospital bedside when he succumbed yesterday at 72 after a long series of heart attacks. Barbara, a third daughter, was reported on her way here from New York.

FOUR FATALLY BURNED TODAY

Erie, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Four persons were burned to death and a fifth seriously injured in a fire which destroyed a Lake Erie cottage following explosions in three oil stoves yesterday.

The victims were: Mrs. Mary Cole, 49, wife of James Cole, owner of the cottage; her daughter, Patricia Bierck, 12; Clifford Ayers, 32, of Erie, chief accountant for the Penn Brass & Copper Co., and his wife, Loretta, also 32.

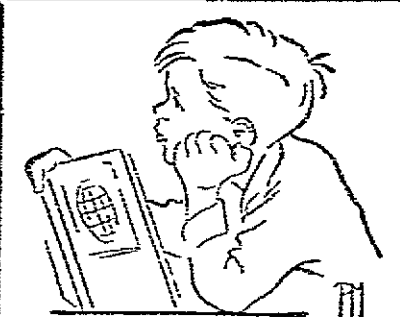

Cole, the fifth occupant of the cottage, today was reported in "satisfactory" condition at Harnot hospital here.

The group, week-ending at Cole's home, canned chickens Saturday night. Before retiring, they filled and lighted three oil stoves.

Early yesterday, Cole was awakened by an explosion and with his wife ran downstairs to find the lower part of the house afire.

"We rushed outside to get water," said Cole. "Then my wife remembered the others and ran back to warn them. She was hardly inside the house when there was a second and louder explosion. I tried to get back in but the door was jammed. I broke the door down and entered. It was too late to do anything."

Despite severe burns, Cole drove two miles to the home of a neighbor for help.

QUISLING PURGE AT TOP OF LIST IN NEW FRANCE

By GLADWIN HILL

Paris, Oct. 23 (AP)—With wealth and gaiety on one hand and heart-tearing poverty and grief on the other, a France jumbled by war into a crazy quilt of contrasts set out today to sweep out the rats as the first step in putting her house in order.

The gloomy halls of the ancient Palais de Justice opened for the first of a series of trials which the government hopes will deal out justice within six months to more than 100,000 persons accused of collaborating with the Germans or giving them aid and comfort during their occupation.

The first defendant is George Suarez, veteran Paris journalist, who served as director of the German-sponsored daily newspaper "Aujourd'hui" and who is alleged to have been paid $15,000 monthly for his services.

Special Courts Set Up
His fate—which may be the firing squad—if he is convicted—will furnish some precedent for the trials of hundreds of other prominent pre-war writers accused of working for Nazi dominated periodicals now suppressed.

Contrary to the impression which may have been created by publicity given the recent women's fashion shows in Paris, it is the purge of Quislings which has become the nation's major concern along with economic recovery.

Vast special judicial machinery has been set up on a nationwide basis to handle the purge. Altogether some 254 courts with one or more judges presiding over each are being established by the Ministry of Justice and they are expected to begin operation all over France within two weeks.

Police Seeking Two Fugitives

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—Police today spread a tri-state dragnet for two prisoners who escaped from Allegheny jail here yesterday. They reported that a man they believed to be one of the prisoners evaded a patrolman who shot twice at him early today.

The officer said he saw the man attempting to break into a parking lot office and fired when he ignored a command to halt. The person, he added, resembled Melvin Roberts Loveland, 21, alleged Army deserter, serving a five to ten year term for 29 burglary charges.

Loveland's companion in the jailbreak was Nick Derembels, 22, awaiting trial. He was accused of stealing auto tires.

Deputy Warden Grant Price reported the men, who slid from the roof on a 30-foot length of rubber hose, evidently had planned the break for Sunday to avoid detection by office workers.

Price told police the men apparently loosened a heavy wire mesh, wriggled to a loft, forced a trapdoor and used a blanket to slide to the roof of the engine room. They obtained the hose by fishing from a window there, he added.

Claim Enemies Of Labor Back Dewey

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—The International executive board of the United Steelworkers of America said in a statement that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is being supported for the presidency by manufacturers who have sought to destroy unions and the National Labor Relations act.

E. T. Weir, Thomas Girdler, Eugene G. Grace, and Joseph Pew were named in the statement.

The board, ending a three-day session here Saturday, said the Republican candidate "seeks to affirm his faith in collective bargaining" and asked, "How can the workers forget the desires of such men as Weir, Girdler, Pew and Grace?"

"These men," the statement continued, "have claved at labor organizations with a ferocious desire to destroy them and to emasculate the National Labor Relations act."

CAN'T REPAIR LIBERTY BELL

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Better forget all this talk about sealing the crack in the Liberty Bell, says Morris Llewellyn Cooke, prominent engineer and former custodian of the treasured relic.

"Even if the crack was filled up, the bell would never ring again," he said.

W. J. Connely, Cleveland consulting engineer, last week started an uproar in Congress and a stir in City Hall here when he suggested the full tone could be restored by welding.

Cooke, who served as Director of Public Works in Philadelphia under a former mayor, said the bell was sent to the San Francisco fair in 1914 and was prepared for the journey by two noted engineers.

"They installed a 'spider' in the Bell—a shaft with three prongs which extend to the sides, inside—and a tumbuckle arrangement," he said.

"The spider" is still inside the bell and should not be removed. That alone would keep the bell from ringing.

"The engineers discovered also that the crack seen from the outside is not the only one. A hair-line crack extends around the circumference of the bell near the lower lip.

"Without the support of the 'spider' the whole lip might break off."

He also said that the bell is so delicate that the crack expanded a thousandths of an inch in the Kansas heat while on its way west.

This bomb is a BUG-BUSTER!

Worse than heat and rain and jungle — almost worse than Japs — are the flying, crawling insect enemies our boys battle in the Pacific.

But American ingenuity is winning the war against bugs as it is against all other enemies. And one of the best weapons is an "aerosol bomb," improved by Atlantic research.

The "bomb" is a metal cylinder about twice the size of a hand grenade. It is charged with pyrethrin, a powerful insecticide dissolved in liquid freon, a refrigerant gas. In the early "bug-busters," impurities in the pyrethrin clogged the fine nozzles through which the deadly mist was sprayed. Atlantic Ultrasene licked the problem of purification — ended clogging.

Today you remove the cap and fizz-whoosh! The freon forces out the insecticide in a fine continuous spray that kills all lice, gnats and mosquitos in the vicinity, but is harmless to humans. One bomb will fumigate a pup tent 250 times or the fuselage of a big bomber 50 times.

Atlantic Ultrasene has proved to be the perfect carrier for insecticides because it is odorless, colorless and does not clog. Developed in peace, it is invaluable in war.

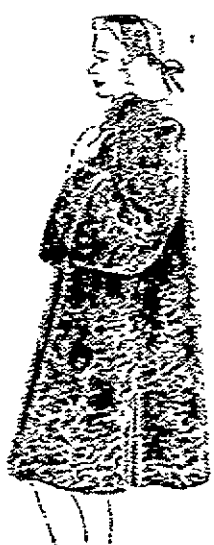

In the same way, Atlantic's wartime technical triumphs will serve to improve peacetime petroleum products — and bring you better motor oil and gasoline than you have ever known before!

FDR PATTERNS CAMPAIGN ON 1940 SCHEDULE

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt, as candidate Roosevelt, will hit the vote-strewn campaign trails of the east again this week with what has been advertised as a speech on business Friday night in Philadelphia's Shibe park.

He also may speak in Chicago Saturday night, but this awaits official announcement. Another address is set for Boston, probably Nov. 4. Cleveland, last stop on his 1940 schedule, may see him before Election Day Nov. 7.

In deciding on an aggressive finish of a campaign that started late, the President is following much the same groove—geographically and otherwise—of his third term spin around the industrial east and mid-west in an effort to nail what he then called "falsification" and what he has termed this time as "fraud" and "falsehood."

Experts See Close Race

Election experts generally say they see a close race in the Nov. 7 voting, with most looking on New York and Pennsylvania to decide the issue with their big bloc of 82 electoral votes.

Gov. Dewey frequently has expressed confidence of victory in speeches. Mr. Roosevelt has not made an open prediction, but he is described by aides as expecting to win. By how much depends on whether he ever opens to public gaze his customary electoral vote guess. He says he has never been right on this yet.

The President topped off his tour through rain-drenched New York streets Saturday with an address there to the Foreign Policy association in which he reiterated that any world peace council must have the power to act quickly, by force if necessary.

Hit GOP Isolationists

He said it is clear the United States representative to the proposed world security council "must be endowed in advance by the people themselves, with constitutional means through their representatives in Congress, with authority to act."

Mr. Roosevelt struck out at those he termed "isolationists" in the Republican party. Apparently dealing with Gov. Dewey's charge that he had conducted "secret, personal diplomacy," the President said the American people knew that both he and Secretary Hull "can not commit this nation to any secret treaties or any secret guarantees which are in violation" of the Constitution.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg.—Mrs. Harry Boyle, supervisor of the local Community Canning Center in the high school, announces that the center will be open from 1:30 to 7:30 p. m. each Tuesday. A total of 303 containers of hominy, sweet potatoes, and peas were processed on October 17th. The bookings to date for October 24th, are for hominy, peas, and sweet potatoes. On October 27 sauer kraut will be made, and processed later if desired. On October 31 pumpkins, pork and beans, also mince meat will be processed. Mrs. Boyle asks that people communicate with her by telephoning 18 for an allotment of time.

Mrs. Holmes Baker, chairman of the Red Cross surgical dressing group for Frederick county, recently advised Mrs. Harry Boyle, chairman of the local group, that National headquarters has requested that all materials now on hand be worked into bandages and made ready for shipment by December 1. Mrs. Boyle said: "Unless we can secure additional volunteer workers here we cannot possibly finish folding the material which we have. I earnestly hope that a greater number of persons will report at the Lutheran parish house twice each week as previously announced so that we may not be compelled to return some of the material unfolded."

J. A. Wood recently was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Baltimore, and was removed by ambulance to the Baltimore City hospital. His wife, the former Margaret Gillilan, their son, Harry, and he have been residing in Baltimore for the past several months, having moved there from Gettysburg. Mrs. Wood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gillilan, 224 W. Main street. The son is being cared for by the grandparents here while his mother spends her time at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hahn and daughter, Margaret, of Taneytown, with their son, and daughter-in-law, Sgt. and Mrs. Ray Hahn, Jr., and their son, Wayne, of Morgansfield, Ky., recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hahn at their home near town. Miss Phyllis Hahn visited her home over the week-end accompanied by Miss Katie Smithson of Perryman, Md., and Cadet Wendell Potter of Cambridge, Md., who is a student at Mt. St. Mary's college. The three were classmates at Salisbury college.

Pvt. William Ryder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ryder, 325 North Seton avenue, recently arrived home from Camp Blanding, Fla., on a ten-day furlough before reporting to a new location. His brother Gerald P. Ryder is overseas.

2,000 MINERS IDLE ON STRIKE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—More than 2,000 men at six western Pennsylvania bituminous coal mines were idle today because of a miscellany of grievances.

Meetings of two union locals last night failed to produce back-to-work motion despite a plea for work resumption made in a telegram from John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president.

Employees at the Midland pit of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., near Houston, Washington county, promptly adjourned after the telegram was read. They have been on strike for 11 days because of a dispute concerning seniority rights of three upple men.

Strikers at the same company's Montour No. 10 pit voted to continue a work stoppage which began last Thursday because of a seniority grievance. Workers at the company's Lindley mine are also out in sympathy.

A grievance involving an incident between a motorman and his foreman resulted in a walkout, now in its fourth day, at Cresson mine No. 2, of Republic Steel Corp., near Charleroi.

Richard Bennett, Actor, Expires

Los Angeles, Oct. 23 (AP)—Death has taken Richard Bennett, a stage idol and screen character actor famed for a sharp and witty tongue that enabled him to reprimand inattentive audiences and make them like it.

His daughters, Constance and Joan Bennett, film actresses, were at his hospital bedside when he succumbed yesterday at 72 after a long series of heart attacks. Barbara, a third daughter, was reported on her way here from New York.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Four persons were burned to death and a fifth seriously injured in a fire which destroyed a Lake Erie cottage following explosions in three oil stoves yesterday.

The victims were: Mrs. Mary Cole, 40, wife of James Cole, owner of the cottage; her daughter, Patricia Blerck, 18; Clifford Ayers, 38, of Erie, chief accountant for the Penn Brass & Copper Co., and his wife, Loretta, also 38.

Cole, the fifth occupant of the cottage, today was reported in "satisfactory" condition at Hamot hospital here.

The group, week-ending at Cole's home, canned chickens Saturday night. Before retiring, they filled and lighted three oil stoves.

Early yesterday, Cole was awakened by an explosion and with his wife ran downstairs to find the lower part of the house afire.

"We rushed outside to get water," said Cole. "Then my wife remembered the others and ran back to warn them. She was hardly inside the house when there was a second and louder explosion. I tried to get back in but the door was jammed. I broke the door down and entered. It was too late to do anything."

Despite severe burns, Cole drove two miles to the home of a neighbor for help.

QUISLING PURGE AT TOP OF LIST IN NEW FRANCE

By GLADWIN HILL

Paris, Oct. 23 (AP)—With wealth and gaiety on one hand and heart-tearing poverty and grief on the other, a France jumbled by war into a crazy quilt of contrasts set out today to sweep out the rats as the first step in putting her house in order.

The gloomy halls of the ancient Palais de Justice opened for the first of a series of trials which the government hopes will deal out justice within six months to more than 100,000 persons accused of collaborating with the Germans or giving them aid and comfort during their occupation.

The first defendant is George Suarez, veteran Paris journalist, who served as director of the German sponsored daily newspaper "Aujourd'hui" and who is alleged to have been paid $15,000 monthly for his services.

Special Courts Set Up

His fate—which may be the firing squad—if he is convicted—will furnish some precedent for the trials of hundreds of other prominent pre-war writers accused of working for Nazi dominated periodicals now suppressed.

Contrary to the impression which may have been created by publicity given the recent women's fashion shows in Paris, it is the purge of Quislings which has become the nation's major concern along with economic recovery.

Vast special judicial machinery has been set up on a nationwide basis to handle the purge. Altogether some 254 courts with one or more judges presiding over each are being established by the Ministry of Justice and they are expected to begin operation all over France within two weeks.

The diamond has the simplest chemical structure of all gems, being merely crystallized carbon.

The first electric locomotive made its trial trip April 29, 1875, at a speed of 19 miles an hour.

Police Seeking Two Fugitives

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—Police today spread a tri-state dragnet for two prisoners who escaped from Allegheny jail here yesterday. They reported that a man they believed to be one of the prisoners evaded a patrolman who shot twice at him early today.

The officer said he saw the man attempting to break into a parking lot office and fired when he ignored a command to halt. The person, he added, resembled Melvin Roberts Loveland, 21, alleged Army deserter serving a five to ten year term for 39 burglary charges.

Loveland's companion in the jailbreak was Nick Derembeis, 32, awaiting trial. He was accused of stealing auto tires.

Deputy Warden Grant Price reported the men, who slid from the roof on a 30-foot length of rubber hose, evidently had planned the break for Sunday to avoid detection by office workers.

Price told police the men apparently loosened a heavy wire mesh, wriggled to a loft, forced a trapdoor and used a blanket to slide to the roof of the engine room. They obtained the hose by fishing from a window there, he added.

Claim Enemies Of Labor Back Dewey

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—The International executive board of the United Steelworkers of America said in a statement that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is being supported for the presidency by manufacturers who have sought to destroy unions and the National Labor Relations act.

E. T. Weir, Thomas Girdler, Eugene G. Grace, and Joseph Pew were named in the statement.

The board, ending a three-day session here Saturday, said the Republican candidate "seeks to affirm his faith in collective bargaining" and asked, "How can the workers forget the desires of such men as Weir, Girdler, Pew and Grace?"

"These men," the statement continued, "have clawed at labor organizations with a ferocious desire to destroy them and to emasculate the National Labor Relations act."

CAN'T REPAIR LIBERTY BELL

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Better forget all this talk about sealing the crack in the Liberty Bell, says Morris Llewellyn Cooke, prominent engineer and former custodian of the treasured relic.

"Even if the crack was filled up, the bell would never ring again," he said.

W. J. Connelly, Cleveland consulting engineer, last week started an uproar in Congress and a stir in City Hall here when he suggested the full tone could be restored by welding.

Cooke, who served as Director of Public Works in Philadelphia under a former mayor, said the bell was sent to the San Francisco fair in 1914 and was prepared for the journey by two noted engineers.

"They installed a 'spider' in the Bell—a shaft with three prongs which extend to the sides, inside—and a turnbuckle arrangement," he said.

"The 'spider' is still inside the bell and should not be removed. That alone would keep the bell from ringing.

"The engineers discovered also that the crack seen from the outside is not the only one. A hair-line crack extends around the circumference of the bell, near the lower lip.

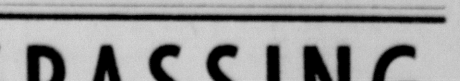

"Without the support of the 'spider' the whole lip might break off."

He also said that the bell is so delicate that the crack expanded a thousandths of an inch in the Kansas heat while on its way west.

Police Seeking Two Fugitives

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—Police today spread a tri-state dragnet for two prisoners who escaped from Allegheny jail here yesterday. They reported that a man they believed to be one of the prisoners evaded a patrolman who shot twice at him early today.

The officer said he saw the man attempting to break into a parking lot office and fired when he ignored a command to halt. The person, he added, resembled Melvin Roberts Loveland, 21, alleged Army deserter serving a five to ten year term for 39 burglary charges.

Loveland's companion in the jail-break was Nick Derembeis, 32, awaiting trial. He was accused of stealing auto tires.

Deputy Warden Grant Price reported the men, who slid from the roof on a 30-foot length of rubber hose, evidently had planned the break for Sunday to avoid detection by office workers.

Price told police the men apparently loosened a heavy wire mesh, wriggled to a loft, forced a trapdoor and used a blanket to slide to the roof of the engine room. They obtained the hose by fishing from a window there, he added.

Claim Enemies Of Labor Back Dewey

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—The International executive board of the United Steelworkers of America said in a statement that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is being supported for the presidency by manufacturers who have sought to destroy unions and the National Labor Relations act.

E. T. Weir, Thomas Girdler, Eugene G. Grace, and Joseph Pew were named in the statement.

The board, ending a three-day session here Saturday, said the Republican candidate "seeks to affirm his faith in collective bargaining" and asked, "How can the workers forget the desires of such men as Weir, Girdler, Pew and Grace?"

"These men," the statement continued, "have clawed at labor organizations with a ferocious desire to destroy them and to emasculate the National Labor Relations act."

CAN'T REPAIR LIBERTY BELL

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Belter forget all this talk about sealing the crack in the Liberty Bell, says Morris Llewellyn Cooke, prominent engineer and former custodian of the treasured relic.

"Even if the crack was filled up, the bell would never ring again," he said.

W. J. Connely, Cleveland consulting engineer, last week started an uproar in Congress and a stir in City Hall here when he suggested the full tone could be restored by welding.

Cooke, who served as Director of Public Works in Philadelphia under a former mayor, said the bell was sent to the San Francisco fair in 1914 and was prepared for the journey by two noted engineers.

"They installed a 'spider' in the Bell—a shaft with three prongs which extend to the sides, inside—and a turnbuckle arrangement," he said.

"The 'spider' is still inside the bell and should not be removed. That alone would keep the bell from ringing.

"The engineers discovered also that the crack seen from the outside is not the only one. A hair-line crack extends around the circumference of the bell, near the lower lip.

"Without the support of the 'spider' the whole lip might break off."

He also said that the bell is so delicate that the crack expanded a thousandths of an inch in the Kansas heat while on its way west.

This bomb is a BUG-BUSTER!

Worse than heat and rain and jungle — almost worse than lops — are the flying, crawling insect enemies our boys battle in the Pacific.

But American ingenuity is winning the war against bugs as it is against all other enemies. And one of the best weapons is an "aerosol bomb," improved by Atlantic research.

The "bomb" is a metal cylinder about twice the size of a hand grenade. It is charged with pyrethrin, a powerful insecticide dissolved in liquid freon, a refrigerant gas. In the early "bug-busters," impurities in the pyrethrin clogged the fine nozzles through which the deadly mist was sprayed. Atlantic Ultrasonic licked the problem of purification — ended clogging.

Today you remove the cap and fizz-whoosh! The freon forces out the insecticide in a fine continuous spray that kills all lice, gnats and mosquitos in the vicinity, but is harmless to humans. One bomb will fumigate a pup tent 250 times or the fuselage of a big bomber 50 times.

Atlantic Ultrasonic has proved to be the perfect carrier for insecticides because it is odorless, colorless and does not clog. Developed in peace, it is invaluable in war.

In the same way, Atlantic's wartime technical triumphs will serve to improve peacetime petroleum products — and bring you better motor oil and gasoline than you have ever known before!

TWO GREAT MEN

We all live, have much of our being, and are inspired to better efforts in our daily tasks by the leadership and example of those who stand out fearlessly as trail blazers—warriors in the public good.

Recently two great Americans have been taken out of the world—men whose deeds and expressions, as well as acts, have gone far beyond their own country and time, into the world at large. One of them, the four-time Governor of New York, Alfred E. Smith (but beloved by millions as just plain "Al"), had already done a great man's job—his entire life, from poverty to affluence, devoted honestly and with great courage and sincerity to the betterment of the masses. Far into the years will his achievements live, and inspire others to follow in his train! His rise from the humblest origin to great distinction and honor is typical of what a free country has to offer.

The other American—Wendell L. Willkie—never given the opportunity to display his leadership in office, yet a powerfully independent thinker, with rare courage of expression, stricken at the richest period of his life! His, too, was a voice "crying in the wilderness" of doubts and confusion, as so many today and crying—yet with a conviction that drew millions to his side. Of German descent, his forebears came to America that this same freedom might become worldwide—all people united for service and happiness in "One World."

Both of these men will leave a glow of light far into the years ahead. It was not their political opinions that made them outstandingly great, but the urge of their hearts, and their sincerity of purpose. Especially will each of these two men be missed at this time when ripeness of mind and clear thinking are none too dominant. But the memory of their devotion to high ideals will inspire us all to be better human beings, more tolerant and selfless, and better citizens.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "To Give—Not to Get"

Shoe Stamp 3 To Be Valid November 1

Airplane Stamp 3 in War Ration Book Three may be used for buying one pair of rationed shoes beginning November 1, the OPA said today.

The new stamp, like Airplane Stamps 1 and 2 now in use, will be valid indefinitely.

Announcement was made September 28 that another shoe ration stamp would become valid November 1, but the number of the stamp was not made known.

As explained previously, validation of the new shoe stamp November 1 continues the rationing rate established a year ago when Airplane Stamp 1 came into use. Since November 1, 1943, shoe stamps have been validated at six-month intervals.

The basest expedients are resorted to, even by men of our town, to operate upon the prejudices of our people in the country. Believe them not—they are the last desperate efforts of a dying faction, who stop at nothing to carry out their purposes. Citizens of Adams county—be on your guard!

SEE TROUBLE IN SS PROVISIONS FOR VETS' JOBS

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—There is no problem now because there is full employment. But labor circles expect some trouble after Germany falls, when millions lose their jobs and veterans come back for jobs.

And this is why: They say the Selective Service Act fails to give veterans sufficient job protection; and that the SS directors have placed at least two "trouble-making" interpretations on the act.

1. A returning veteran is entitled to his old job—or one similar to it—even if it means discharging a non-veteran with greater seniority.

Doubtful Legality
2. If a returned veteran finds that his "employer has entered into employment agreements with others, setting up conditions of employment different from those which existed at the time the veteran left, the veteran can not be deprived of his re-employment rights by reason of these agreements."

David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, attacked the No. 1 interpretation, saying:

"The law does not, of itself, give super-seniority to veterans although it does protect them against loss of seniority. I am sure its legality (the interpretation) is doubtful."

The CIO's United Automobile (UAW), at their convention last month, adopted a resolution which said:

Affects Closed Shops

"This interpretation is a distortion of the meaning of the act and of the intent of Congress in that it would completely destroy the seniority system which x x x is the only lasting protection which workers, veterans or non-veterans, have against discriminatory or capricious discharge and layoffs by employers."

As to interpretation No. 2:

This directly affects unions and closed shops. The number of such shops has increased during the war. In many cases a veteran who left a nonunion shop to go to war will return to find it a union shop.

Labor's Proposals

Thus the SS interpretation might run head-on into provisions of existing collective bargaining agreements.

Labor says the SS law now gives no job protection to these returning veterans: Men who were "temporary" or "probationary" workers; those who entered the armed services from school and never had a job; those who were disabled in service and can not fill their old jobs.

So here are some labor proposals to protect those not now provided for: Give seniority credit to all veterans for time spent in service, including those who were temporary or probationary workers and those who never had a job.

AGRICULTURE IS NEW DEWEY TOPIC TODAY

Albany, Oct. 23 (AP)—Turning from foreign policy and labor, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey took up another important presidential campaign issue today with a declaration that the "first fundamental necessity for a prosperous agriculture is full production and employment in business and industry."

"Only if all elements in our country pull together," the Republican nominee said in a statement, "can we attain the twin goals of prosperous farming and a good diet for all our people."

The governor's remarks prefaced a state food commission report released simultaneously with his scheduled departure for Minneapolis, where he is expected to outline his farm program in a national broadcast Tuesday night.

In brief, the thesis advanced by Dewey's commission is that the farmer is dependent on the city worker, who in turn is dependent on a steady-income job in order to pay for a regular supply of the farmer's food.

No Comment On FDR Speech

The report declared that in 1936, the year that Alf Landon opposed President Roosevelt's bid for a second term, approximately two thirds of the nation's families had incomes of less than $30 a week.

"There were 10 million unemployed," the report said, "and 15 per cent of all families were on relief some time during the year."

"Under such circumstances," it added, "not only is national health endangered but a prosperous agriculture is impossible."

Dewey, who thus far has declined to comment on Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy association speech of Saturday, will go from Minneapolis to Chicago, stopping Wednesday morning in Milwaukee for a three hour round of conferences with Wisconsin party leaders.

OPEN PROBE OF BLASTS, FIRE AT CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Oct. 23 (AP)—As workers today resumed combing ruins for additional victims of Cleveland's greatest disaster, a ten-man board of inquiry appointed by Mayor Frank J. J. Lausche began an investigation of the liquid fuel gas storage plant explosions and fire which devastated a 50-block east side area.

The death toll in the catastrophe which struck the East Ohio gas company's plant Friday afternoon soared to 98, while 108 persons still officially were listed as missing, 49 of them plant employees. However, many of those carried on the county morgue's missing roll may be found among the unidentified dead.

Another 49 men, women and children still were under treatment in hospitals. Seven remained in critical condition.

Red Cross Aids Homeless

Mayor Lausche set up the board of inquiry, half of the members of which are chemists and engineers at Case School of Applied Science, shortly before he and American Red Cross officials reviewed final plans for a rehabilitation program.

The Red Cross said 680 homeless persons who have been sleeping and eating in school buildings for three days, would be in semi-permanent dwellings by tonight.

Utility services were being restored to every habitable house and industrial plant as persons were permitted to return to residences damaged by concussion.

Great Damage

In the area of greatest havoc bulldozers were used to raze fire-blackened walls of gutted buildings and to level chimneys. City cleanup crews also hauled debris.

Estimates of property damage ranged from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000. East Ohio spokesmen listed damage to the $6,000,000 liquid gas storage plant, first of its kind in the nation, at more than $4,000,000.

Two Gas Coupons Expire October 31

The last of the non-serially numbered off-highway gasoline coupons, those lettered "E" and "R," will expire October 31, the OPA announced today.

Filling station operators will have 10 days, or through November 10, to turn in the expired coupons to their suppliers for gasoline, or to exchange them at their local War Price and Rationing Board for ration banking checks. Distributors will have through November 20 to deposit these coupons in their ration bank accounts.

Farmers and other non-highway gasoline users who have "E" and "R" coupons, which are not serially numbered and were issued for use beyond November 1, may exchange these coupons for valid ration currency at their rationing board.

The expiring coupons may be identified by two points: First, the coupons do not have a serial number on them; second, they bear the capital letter "E" or "R" with no number after it. (Currently valid coupons in addition to bearing serial numbers, are lettered "E-1," "E-2," "R-1," "R-2.")

Nine Are Dead In Los Angeles Blaze

Los Angeles, Oct. 23 (AP)—Nine men are dead, five missing and more than 100 injured following a harbor fire Saturday that wrecked two Naval landing ships, 200 feet of dock, a large crane and about 15 welding trucks.

San Pedro police said "witnesses indicated the fire started when a welder on one of the landing craft dropped some hot sparks into the water covered by toluene, apparently spilled from a Navy tanker."

Toluene resembles high-test gasoline in odor and appearance, the report explained.

The dead include six Navy men.

Some snails live to be 25 years old.

ALLIES SEIZE GREEK ISLAND

Rome, Oct. 23 (AP)—The large Aegean island of Evvoia (Euboea), adjacent to the Greek mainland north of Athens, has been cleared completely of Germans. Allied headquarters announced today.

The island is a mountainous stretch of 115 miles long and 33 miles at its greatest breadth. It is separated from the mainland by a narrow channel, the northern part of which is known as the channel of Atalanti.

Dispatches from Athens said the island's chief city, Khalkis, surrendered to a combined force of British and Greek patriots and that a small number of troops left behind in a German evacuation were taken prisoner.

The strategic north Aegean island of Lemnos has been occupied by the British and all of the Cyclades group was reported freed today as German forces on the mainland continued their flight through northern Greece.

Seizure of the port of Mudros on the south coast of Lemnos, which guards the entrance to the Dardanelles, was announced yesterday in a Royal Navy communique.

Allied headquarters announced that six months emergency civilian supplies for Greece, amounting to about 780,000 tons valued at $120,000,000 had been provided for by the United States and Britain.

How to keep a house from catching cold!

ONE way to keep a house from getting cold is by weatherstripping all doors and windows. Closing up the cracks that let cold in—and heat out.

There is going to be some shortage of coal delivered to homes this winter. Not because less coal is being mined. It is estimated that 29 millions more tons of bituminous coal will be mined this year than last—with fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate rail facilities for hauling the coal to your city. But certain grades of coal are going to be greatly in demand for war production. And your coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him.

Little, common-sense precautions can make your coal pile last 10% longer—and save that much on your fuel bill.

Such things as weatherstripping, cleaning the heating system, closing off unused rooms, firing carefully, and drawing your shades at night can help to keep your family snug and warm.

One of the biggest jobs of the C & O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

Look Out! Handbills and caricatures of the vilest character, are now in circulation by the opponents of Henry Clay. The basest expedients are resorted to, even by men of our town, to operate upon the prejudices of our people in the country. Believe them not—they are the last desperate efforts of a dying faction, who stop at nothing to carry out their purposes. Citizens of Adams county—be on your guard!

The Love Feast at Pfoutz's church on Sunday a week was largely attended. Five persons were admitted to the church by immersion on Sunday previous.

Statue.—The excavation for the foundation of the Reynolds bronze statue in the National Cemetery here, has been made. The statue, we are told, is to be raised in place next summer. It will be placed near the entrance. We should have preferred to see it located on the ground where Gen. Reynolds fell, back of the Seminary. But the First Corps have selected the National Cemetery, and their decision is final.

General News: There is a report current that the Emperor of Brazil is about to invest largely in American machinery.

The anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, was celebrated on Sunday by the residents of San Francisco.

A salute in honor of the Republic's victory in this State was fired on Capitol Hill, Harrisburg, on Tuesday.

SEE TROUBLE IN SS PROVISIONS FOR VETS' JOBS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—There is no problem now because there is full employment. But labor circles expect some trouble after Germany falls, when millions lose their jobs and veterans come back for jobs.

And this is why: They say the Selective Service Act fails to give veterans sufficient job protection; and that the SS directors have placed at least two trouble-making interpretations on the act.

1. A returning veteran is entitled to his old job—or one similar to it—even if it means discharging a non-veteran with greater seniority.

Doubtful Legality

2. If a returned veteran finds that his "employer" has entered into employment agreements with others, setting up conditions of employment different from those which existed at the time the veteran left, the veteran can not be deprived of his re-employment rights by reason of these agreements.

David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, attacked the No. 1 interpretation, saying:

"The law does not, of itself, give super-seniority to veterans although it does protect them against loss of seniority. I am sure its legality (the interpretation) is doubtful."

The CIO's United Automobile (UAW), at their convention last month, adopted a resolution which said:

Affects Closed Shops

"This interpretation is a distortion of the meaning of the act and of the intent of Congress in that it would completely destroy the seniority system which x x x is the only lasting protection which workers, veterans or non-veterans, have against discriminatory or capricious discharge and layoffs by employers."

As to interpretation No. 2:

This directly affects unions and closed shops. The number of such shops has increased during the war. In many cases a veteran who left a nonunion shop to go to war will return to find it a union shop.

Labor's Proposals

Thus the SS interpretation might run head-on into provisions of existing collective bargaining agreements.

Labor says the SS law now gives no job protection to these returning veterans: Men who were "temporary" or "probationary" workers; those who entered the armed services from school and never had a job; those who were disabled in service and can not fill their old jobs.

So here are some labor proposals to protect those not now provided for: Give seniority credit to all veterans for time spent in service, including those who were temporary or probationary workers and those who never had a job.

AGRICULTURE IS NEW DEWEY TOPIC TODAY

Albany, Oct. 23 (AP)—Turning from foreign policy and labor, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey took up another important presidential campaign issue today with a declaration that the "first fundamental necessity for a prosperous agriculture" is full production and employment in business and industry.

"Only if all elements in our country pull together," the Republican nominee said in a statement, "can we attain the twin goals of prosperous farming and a good diet for all our people."

The governor's remarks prefaced a state food commission report released simultaneously with his scheduled departure for Minneapolis, where he is expected to outline his farm program in a national broadcast Tuesday night.

In brief, the thesis advanced by Dewey's commission is that the farmer is dependent on the city worker, who in turn is dependent on a steady-income job in order to pay for a regular supply of the farmer's food.

No Comment On FDR Speech
The report declared that in 1936, the year that Alf Landon opposed President Roosevelt's bid for a second term, approximately two thirds of the nation's families had incomes of less than $30 a week.

"There were 10 million unemployed," the report said, "and 15 per cent of all families were on relief some time during the year."

"Under such circumstances," it added, "not only is national health endangered but a prosperous agriculture is impossible."

Dewey, who thus far has declined to comment on Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy association speech of Saturday, will go from Minneapolis to Chicago, stopping Wednesday morning in Milwaukee for a three hour round of conferences with Wisconsin party leaders.

OPEN PROBE OF BLASTS, FIRE AT CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Oct. 23 (AP)—As workers today resumed combing ruins for additional victims of Cleveland's greatest disaster, a ten-man board of inquiry appointed by Mayor Frank J. J. Lausche began an investigation of the liquid fuel gas storage plant explosions and fire which devastated a 50-block east side area.

The death toll in the catastrophe which struck the East Ohio gas company's plant Friday afternoon soared to 98, while 108 persons still officially were listed as missing, 49 of them plant employees. However, many of those carried on the county morgue's missing roll may be found among the unidentified dead.

Another 49 men, women and children still were under treatment in hospitals. Seven remained in critical condition.

Red Cross Aids Homeless

Mayor Lausche set up the board of inquiry, half of the members of which are chemists and engineers at Case School of Applied Science, shortly before he and American Red Cross officials reviewed final plans for a rehabilitation program.

The Red Cross said 680 homeless persons who have been sleeping and eating in school buildings for three days, would be in semi-permanent dwellings by tonight.

Utility services were being restored to every habitable house and industrial plant as persons were permitted to return to residences damaged by concussion.

Great Damage

In the area of greatest havoc bulldozers were used to raze fire-blackened walls of gutted buildings and to level chimneys. City cleanup crews also hauled debris.

Estimates of property damage ranged from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000. East Ohio spokesmen listed damage to the $6,000,000 liquid gas storage plant, first of its kind in the nation, at more than $4,000,000.

Two Gas Coupons Expire October 31

The last of the non-serially numbered off-highway gasoline coupons, those lettered "E" and "R," will expire October 31, the OPA announced today.

Filling station operators will have 10 days, or through November 10, to turn in the expired coupons to their suppliers for gasoline, or to exchange them at their local War Price and Rationing Board for ration banking checks. Distributors will have through November 20 to deposit these coupons in their ration bank accounts.

Farmers and other non-highway gasoline users who have "E" and "R" coupons, which are not serially numbered and were issued for use beyond November 1, may exchange these coupons for valid ration currency at their rationing board.

The expiring coupons may be identified by two points: First, the coupons do not have a serial number on them; second, they bear the capital letter "E" or "R" with no number after it. (Currently valid coupons in addition to bearing serial numbers, are lettered "E-1," "E-2," "R-1," "R-2.")

Nine Are Dead In Los Angeles Blaze

Los Angeles, Oct. 23 (AP)—Nine men are dead, five missing and more than 100 injured following a harbor fire Saturday that wrecked two Naval landing ships, 200 feet of dock, a large crane and about 15 welding trucks.

San Pedro police said "witnesses indicated the fire started when a welder on one of the landing craft dropped some hot sparks into the water covered by toluene, apparently spilled from a Navy tanker."

Toluene resembles high-test gasoline in odor and appearance, the report explained.

The dead include six Navy men.

Some snails live to be 25 years old.

The Australian phalanger is the only known animal with green fur.

ALLIES SEIZE GREEK ISLAND

Rome, Oct. 23 (AP)—The large Aegean island of Evvoia (Euboea), adjacent to the Greek mainland north of Athens, has been cleared completely of Germans, Allied headquarters announced today.

The island is a mountainous stretch of 115 miles long and 33 miles at its greatest breadth. It is separated from the mainland by a narrow channel, the northern part of which is known as the channel of Atalanti.

Dispatches from Athens said the island's chief city, Khalkis, surrendered to a combined force of British and Greek patriots and that a small number of troops left behind in a German evacuation were taken prisoner.

The strategic north Aegean island of Lemnos has been occupied by the British and all of the Cyclades group was reported freed today as German forces on the mainland continued their flight through northern Greece.

Seizure of the port of Mudros on the south coast of Lemnos, which guards the entrance to the Dardanelles, was announced yesterday in a Royal Navy communique.

Allied headquarters announced that six months emergency civilian supplies for Greece, amounting to about 780,000 tons valued at $120,000,000 had been provided for by the United States and Britain.

How to keep a house from catching cold!

ONE WAY to keep a house from getting cold is by weatherstripping all doors and windows. Closing up the cracks that let cold in—and heat out.

There is going to be some shortage of coal delivered to homes this winter. Not because less coal is being mined. It is estimated that 29 millions more tons of bituminous coal will be mined this year than last—with fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate rail facilities for hauling the coal to your city. But certain grades of coal are going to be greatly in demand for war production. And your coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him.

Little, common-sense precautions can make your coal pile last 10% longer—and save that much on your fuel bill.

Such things as weatherstripping, cleaning the heating system, closing off unused rooms, firing carefully, and drawing your shades at night can help to keep your family snug and warm.

One of the biggest jobs of the C & O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

MAKE PLANS FOR 6 ARMY AIRMEN FDR'S VISIT TO PHILADELPHIA

(By The Associated Press)
Philadelphia, its powerful voting strength courted by national leaders of both major parties, again took the spotlight today on the Pennsylvania political front as Democratic chiefs discussed plans for President Roosevelt's visit to the state's largest city on Friday.

Initial plans for protection of the President will be discussed tonight when Democratic officials meet. Public Safety Director James H. Malone and Police Superintendent Howard P. Sutton.

Meanwhile, the committee in charge of arrangements announced that tickets are ready to be issued for Shibe Park where the President will speak.

Tentative plans call for the park gates to be opened at 6 p. m. with persons not having tickets to be admitted after a deadline—to be set later—for ticket holders.

It will be Mr. Roosevelt's first visit of the campaign to Pennsylvania. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the presidential nominee, has addressed crowds at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Other Campaign News
Other late news on the campaign front:

Gifford Pinchot, former Republican governor of Pennsylvania and Chairman of the Independent voters for Roosevelt committee, said in a letter released by Democratic headquarters at Harrisburg that Gov. Dewey "is not big enough to lead the greatest of all nations in the greatest crisis of all times."

The letter, Democratic headquarters said, was mailed to 30,000 Pennsylvanians.

State GOP Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said in a prepared statement that re-election of Mr. Roosevelt is "an invitation to National disaster."

The entire system of American government has been mutilated x x x.

The Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council (CIO) said in another statement that "on measures of importance from a humane, liberal and labor rights standpoint, Congressman (Francis J.) Myers (Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator) was consistently fair, fair play, Senator (James J.) Davis (seeking Republican re-election), by glaring contrast, was anything but good."

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Democratic candidates will do most of their campaigning in Eastern Pennsylvania this week, according to the schedule released by State Committee headquarters.

The schedule for candidates includes:

Monday—Rep. Francis J. Myers for U. S. Senate; Judge Chester H. Rhodes, superior court, and State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner, Auditor General, Lehigh county with night meeting at Allentown, Myers will also broadcast from Easton at 9:15 p. m.

Tuesday—Auditor General F. Clair Ross, Superior Court; Ramsey S. Black, State Treasurer; and Judge Charles Alvin Jones, Supreme Court, Northampton county.

Tuesday—Myers at Hazleton; other five candidates at Pottstown for night meeting. State Chairman David L. Lawrence at Lewistown.

Wednesday—Ross, Black, Wagner and Rhodes at Harrisburg; Myers, Jones and Lawrence at Scranton.

Landfall

Chapter 10

Cherry tidied herself in her own cabin. Nearly all her flowers had gone, withered in the hot, stuffy night air when the ship was closed; but she still had three marigolds alive, and a cluster of fern. Their bright, merry faces seemed to smile at her today. She had never felt younger, happier, more alive. She went outside to take her place in the rank of stewards all standing stiffly at attention.

Waiting for the captain and chief steward to reach her end of the alley, she closed her eyes for a moment, almost afraid of the happiness that was welling inside her. There was no rhyme or reason for this sudden ecstasy, this joy in living that was almost painfully sweet. But she couldn't help it. It was the first time she'd set eyes on Rory for six days. They hadn't been easy days, avoiding Sir Douglas and trying to keep Julia equable. Now she realized she had missed Rory, missed him as one misses an old and cherished friend. And that's absurd, she told herself, because he doesn't even know I'm here, really. If I got off the ship at Panama he'd forget my name in a couple of days. He might remember Terry for a while, but not me. He's only interested in the ship, in his work.

She wondered if Pip were right, and if it were natural for a man to be quite so absorbed in his job. Perhaps Rory was in love with some girl ashore. He might even be engaged. She knew, she realized with a sudden pang, absolutely nothing about his private life. And he wasn't the sort of man to talk about his private concerns. She was putting a perfectly ridiculous significance upon a few kind words, and the odd feeling whenever they were together that they were both seeing and feeling the same things. The sea has a magic—she smiled at herself.

In a few weeks she would disembark from the Comorand and within a few days they would only remember her as the young stewardess who happened to come along and help them out of a quandary when Miss Harris fell ill. She was, after all, only a talented amateur. Cherry sighed, and opened her eyes. The sudden silence down the rank of waiting stewards told her that the inspection had started.

Simultaneously on the bridge—Terry was only six-and-a-half, but he was so intelligent and eager about everything that Rory found himself going into things far more thoroughly than he intended. There were the big land maps he pored over and from them Rory was able to explain how every mile of the sea was charted in just the same way. It opened up a new world for Terry.

"Then there are mountains and valleys and things under the sea. Gosh I thought the sea was all flat!" "If it was all flat we wouldn't need charts old man. We have to be very careful to stay in deep water, or we might get stranded on a sandbank, or run into a rocky island during the night."

"Fancy sailing over the top of a mountain! We might be on top of a mermaid's castle now!" "We might be. They have wonderful trees and plants down there, you know—coral all the colors of the rainbow for flowers—big fish and little fish for animals—almost everything we have on land."

Terry pointed to a deep blue patch on the chart. "That's where the Mermaid Queen would live, don't you think? Tell me what sort of a palace she would have."

They went into the wheelhouse, to Terry's unspeakable delight. "How do we know where we're going? The sea looks all the same, everywhere."

Rory pointed out the compass wheel. "I'll take you up and show you the actual compass. We steer by that, not by looking at the sea."

"Then why do you have to watch?" "We have to keep checking our bearings, and we watch the sea for anything unexpected that might crop up."

"Oh, I see." Terry slipped down beside him, feeling the hot rays of the sun as they mounted the compass platform. Rory showed him how to take a bearing from the sun, and from the stars at night, and took him down again to exhibit the automatic helmsman and a dozen gadgets that fascinated the small boy. Terry ran the width of the bridge, peered into the armored pill-boxes that mounted guns at either end, and got one of the gunners to explain the inside workings of an anti-aircraft gun to him. When he had finished his tour of inspection he stood beside Rory staring over the smooth sea, his active mind held still by imagining what lay below that

Waiting for the captain and chief steward to reach her end of the alley, she closed her eyes for a moment, almost afraid of the happiness that was welling inside her. There was no rhyme or reason for this sudden ecstasy, this joy in living that was almost painfully sweet. But she couldn't help it. It was the first time she'd set eyes on Rory for six days. They hadn't been easy days, avoiding Sir Douglas and trying to keep Julia equable. Now she realized she had missed Rory, missed him as one misses an old and cherished friend. And that's absurd, she told herself, because he doesn't even know I'm here, really. If I got off the ship at Panama he'd forget my name in a couple of days. He might remember Terry for a while, but not me. He's only interested in the ship, in his work.

She wondered if Pip were right, and if it were natural for a man to be quite so absorbed in his job. Perhaps Rory was in love with some girl ashore. He might even be engaged. She knew, she realized with a sudden pang, absolutely nothing about his private life. And he wasn't the sort of man to talk about his private concerns. She was putting a perfectly ridiculous significance upon a few kind words, and the odd feeling whenever they were together that they were both seeing and feeling the same things. The sea has a magic—she smiled at herself.

In a few weeks she would disembark from the Comorand and within a few days they would only remember her as the young stewardess who happened to come along and help them out of a quandary when Miss Harris fell ill. She was, after all, only a talented amateur. Cherry sighed, and opened her eyes. The sudden silence down the rank of waiting stewards told her that the inspection had started.

Simultaneously on the bridge—Terry was only six-and-a-half, but he was so intelligent and eager about everything that Rory found himself going into things far more thoroughly than he intended. There were the big land maps he pored over and from them Rory was able to explain how every mile of the sea was charted in just the same way. It opened up a new world for Terry.

"Then there are mountains and valleys and things under the sea. Gosh I thought the sea was all flat!" "If it was all flat we wouldn't need charts old man. We have to be very careful to stay in deep water, or we might get stranded on a sandbank, or run into a rocky island during the night."

"Fancy sailing over the top of a mountain! We might be on top of a mermaid's castle now!" "We might be. They have wonderful trees and plants down there, you know—coral all the colors of the rainbow for flowers—big fish and little fish for animals—almost everything we have on land."

Terry pointed to a deep blue patch on the chart. "That's where the Mermaid Queen would live, don't you think? Tell me what sort of a palace she would have."

They went into the wheelhouse, to Terry's unspeakable delight. "How do we know where we're going? The sea looks all the same, everywhere."

Rory pointed out the compass wheel. "I'll take you up and show you the actual compass. We steer by that, not by looking at the sea."

"Then why do you have to watch?" "We have to keep checking our bearings, and we watch the sea for anything unexpected that might crop up."

"Oh, I see." Terry slipped down beside him, feeling the hot rays of the sun as they mounted the compass platform. Rory showed him how to take a bearing from the sun, and from the stars at night, and took him down again to exhibit the automatic helmsman and a dozen gadgets that fascinated the small boy. Terry ran the width of the bridge, peered into the armored pill-boxes that mounted guns at either end, and got one of the gunners to explain the inside workings of an anti-aircraft gun to him. When he had finished his tour of inspection he stood beside Rory staring over the smooth sea, his active mind held still by imagining what lay below that smooth blue surface. "Tell me, what the Mermaid Queen's palace is like," he begged again.

Rory told him, making up the story as he went along, amused at his own inventive powers. In his years at sea he had never before stopped to imagine what the Mermaid Queen was like, and to build her a rugged, rocky palace with waving seaweed for ferns, and giant coral for trees, and little star-faced coral for flowers. He drew upon the wonders he had seen in the Pacific Islands, and piece by piece built up a story that left Terry wide-eyed and delighted. He loved especially the Mermaid Queen herself, with long hair the color of amber in sunshine, and big gray eyes with dark, sweeping lashes, and a gown of rainbow sequins.

"Oh, she's nice! You make her sound the nicest wendies; bit like Cherry! Is the Queen like Cherry?" he demanded.

Rory colored slightly under his tan. "Maybe. Yes, I should think she is rather like Cherry," he admitted in an odd, far-away sort of voice.

Twilight Tear's
Plans Unchanged

Baltimore, Oct. 23 (AP)—The second starting upset defeat of Twilight Tear by a three-year-old filly this year hasn't made any change in the Calumet Farm plans to match her against older horses in the $25,000 Pimlico Special Nov. 1.

Toting 130 pounds, the Queen of the Turf ran out of the money for the first time in two years of racing in Saturday's Maryland Handicap at Laurel Park. She finished fourth behind Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan's Dora Me, a $24 for $2 choice, in the mile and a quarter race.

But the Tear came out of the race in good shape, and Calumet trainer Ben A. Jones said she apparently just couldn't win under the high impost and over the muddy racing strip.

Bricker Assails New Deal Spending

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 23 (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker, urging greater control over the use of taxpayers' money, asserted today that government corporations had spent huge sums never appropriated by Congress.

The Ohio governor, who devoted today to campaigning in Wyoming and Colorado, added in a prepared speech released by his campaign staff:

"There is a vital need in Washington for greater control over the spending of taxpayers' money. This will not be done by an administration drunk with power and bent upon making another Reichstag and rubber stamp out of our Congress."

Describing the people's money as "trust money" which "should be wisely spent and carefully accounted for," Bricker declared:

"The Republican party pledges to closely guard the nation's pocketbook and to preserve our financial integrity."

Honey Production In State Curtailed

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Pennsylvania can no longer be considered a land of milk or honey, declared the federal-state crop reporting service of the state department of agriculture in making an annual honey survey of the state.

The growing practice of cutting clover early in the season in order to produce milk from the state's dairy herds has seriously affected the output of honey, the crop service reports.

Honey production for Pennsylvania this year is estimated at 6,112,000 pounds, or 144,000 pounds less than 1943. Bee keepers said that it was too cool and wet in the spring and too dry and hot in the summer for maximum honey production.

Monday—Rep. Francis J. Myers for U. S. Senate; Judge Chester H. Rhodes, superior court, and State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner, Auditor General, Lehigh county with night meeting at Allentown, Myers will also broadcast from Easton at 9:15 p. m.

Tuesday—Auditor General F. Clair Ross, Superior Court; Ramsey S. Black, State Treasurer; and Judge Charles Alvin Jones, Supreme Court, Northampton county.

Tuesday—Myers at Hazleton; other five candidates at Pottstown for night meeting. State Chairman David L. Lawrence at Lewistown.

Wednesday—Ross, Black, Wagner and Rhodes at Harrisburg; Myers, Jones and Lawrence at Scranton.

Thursday—Myers, Rhodes and Wagner at Lancaster; U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey at New Brighton and Ross, Black and Jones at York.

Friday—All candidates at Philadelphia.

MAKE PLANS FOR FDR'S VISIT TO PHILADELPHIA

(By The Associated Press)
Philadelphia, its powerful voting strength courted by national leaders of both major parties, again took the spotlight today on the Pennsylvania political front as Democratic chiefs discussed plans for President Roosevelt's visit to the state's largest city on Friday.

Initial plans for protection of the President will be discussed tonight when Democratic officials meet. Public Safety Director James H. Malone and Police Superintendent Howard P. Sutton.

Meanwhile, the committee in charge of arrangements announced that tickets are ready to be issued for Shibe Park where the President will speak.

Tentative plans call for the park gates to be opened at 6 p. m. with persons not having tickets to be admitted after a deadline—to be set later—for ticket holders.

It will be Mr. Roosevelt's first visit of the campaign to Pennsylvania. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the presidential nominee, has addressed crowds at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Other Campaign News

Other late news on the campaign front:

Gifford Pinchot, former Republican governor of Pennsylvania and Chairman of the Independent voters for Roosevelt committee, said in a letter released by Democratic headquarters at Harrisburg that Gov. Dewey "is not big enough to lead the greatest of all nations in the greatest crisis of all times." The letter, Democratic headquarters said, was mailed to 30,000 Pennsylvanians.

State GOP Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said in a prepared statement that re-election of Mr. Roosevelt is "an invitation to National disaster" and added that under the President "the entire system of American government has been mutilated x x x."

The Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council (CIO) said in another statement that "on measures of importance from a humane, liberal and labor rights standpoint, Congressman (Francis J.) Myers (Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator) was consistently for fair play. Senator (James J.) Davis (seeking Republican re-election), by glaring contrast, was anything but good."

DEMOCRATS LIST SPEAKING DATES

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Democratic candidates will do most of their campaigning in Eastern Pennsylvania this week, according to the schedule released by State Committee headquarters.

The schedule for candidates includes:

6 ARMY AIRMEN DIE IN CRASH

Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 23 (AP)—Six Army airmen were killed instantly and five others were injured, one critically, in the crash of a four-engine bomber during a takeoff yesterday at Davis Monthan Army air base.

The B-24 Liberator narrowly missed a bus filled with soldiers as it hurtled to earth just after clearing the runway. The bus driver halted his machine when he noticed the plane out of control.

A whirling propeller spun into a ground crew building 350 feet away from the crash. A soldier instructing a class was cut by flying glass.

The plane came to a stop and burned in the base salvage yards.

The dead included:

Second Lt. Ernest Conley, 22, pilot, son of H. J. Conley, Williamsport, Pa.

Pfc. Howard A. Waeltz, 19, aerial gunner, son of Mrs. Carrie E. Waeltz, Ardysle, Pa.

The injured included:

Pfc. Alexander W. Stewart, 19, aerial gunner, son of Mrs. Anna E. Stewart, Beaver Meadows, Pa., critically.

Landfall

Chapter 10
Cherry tidied herself in her own cabin. Nearly all her flowers had gone, withered in the hot, stuffy night air when the ship was closed; but she still had three marigolds alive, and a cluster of fern. Their bright, merry faces seemed to smile at her today. She had never felt younger, happier, more alive. She went outside to take her place in the rank of stewards all standing stiffly at attention.

Waiting for the captain and chief steward to reach her end of the alley, she closed her eyes for a moment, almost afraid of the happiness that was welling inside her. There was no rhyme or reason for this sudden ecstasy, this joy in living that was almost painfully sweet. But she couldn't help it. It was the first time she'd set eyes on Rory for six days. When he had finished his tour of inspection he stood beside Rory staring over the smooth sea, his active mind held still by imagining what lay below that smooth blue surface.

"Tell me what the Mermaid Queen's palace is like," he begged again.

Rory told him, making up the story as he went along, amused at his own inventive powers. In his story at sea he had never before stopped to imagine what the Mermaid Queen was like, and to build her a rugged, rocky palace with waving seaweed for ferns, and giant coral for trees, and little star-faced coral for flowers. He drew upon the wonders he had seen in the Pacific Islands, and piece by piece built up a story that left Terry wide-eyed and delighted. He loved especially the Mermaid Queen herself, with long hair the color of amber in sunshine, and big gray eyes with dark, sweeping lashes, and a gown of rainbow sequins.

"Oh, she's nice! You make her sound the teeniest weeniest bit like Cherry! Is the Queen like Cherry?" he demanded.

Rory colored slightly under his tan. "Maybe. Yes, I should think she is rather like Cherry," he admitted in an odd, far-away sort of voice.

MAKE PLANS FOR FDR'S VISIT TO PHILADELPHIA

(By The Associated Press) Philadelphia, its powerful voting strength courted by national leaders of both major parties, again took the spotlight today on the Pennsylvania political front as Democratic chieftains discussed plans for President Roosevelt's visit to the state's largest city on Friday.

Initial plans for protection of the President will be discussed tonight when Democratic officials meet Public Safety Director James H. Malone and Police Superintendent Howard P. Sutton.

Meanwhile, the committee in charge of arrangements announced that tickets are ready to be issued for Shibe Park where the President will speak.

Tentative plans call for the park gates to be opened at 6 p. m. with persons not having tickets to be admitted after a deadline—to be set later—for ticket holders.

It will be Mr. Roosevelt's first visit of the campaign to Pennsylvania. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the presidential nominee, has addressed crowds at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Other Campaign News

Other late news on the campaign front:

Gifford Pinchot, former Republican governor of Pennsylvania and Chairman of the Independent voters for Roosevelt committee, said in a letter released by Democratic headquarters at Harrisburg that Gov. Dewey "is not big enough to lead the greatest of all nations in the greatest crisis of all times." The letter, Democratic headquarters said, was mailed to 30,000 Pennsylvanians.

State GOP Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said in a prepared statement that re-election of Mr. Roosevelt is "an invitation to National disaster" and added that under the President "the entire system of American government has been mutilated x x x."

The Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council (CIO) said in another statement that "on measures of importance from a humane, liberal and labor rights standpoint, Congressmen (Francis J.) Myers (Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator) was consistently for fair play. Senator (James J.) Davis (seeking Republican re-election), by glaring contrast, was anything but good."

DEMOCRATS LIST SPEAKING DATES

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Democratic candidates will do most of their campaigning in Eastern Pennsylvania this week, according to the schedule released by State Committee headquarters.

The schedule for candidates includes: Monday—Rep. Francis J. Myers, for U. S. Senate; Judge Chester H. Rhodes, superior court, and State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner, Auditor General, Lehigh county with night meeting at Allentown. Myers will also broadcast from Easton at 9:15 p. m.

Tuesday — Auditor General F. Clair Ross, Superior Court; Ramsey S. Black, State Treasurer; and Judge Charles Alvin Jones, Supreme Court, Northampton county.

Wednesday — Myers at Hazleton; other five candidates at Pottsville for night meeting. State Chairman David L. Lawrence at Lewistown.

Thursday — Ross, Black, Wagner and Rhodes at Harrisburg; Myers, Jones and Lawrence at Scranton.

Friday — Myers, Rhodes and Wagner at Lancaster; U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffy at New Brighton and Ross, Black and Jones at York.

Saturday — All candidates at Philadelphia.

Sunday — Ross, Jones and Black at Carlisle; Myers, Rhodes and Wagner at Lock Haven and Williamsport.

Sunday — Myers at Shamokin and Philadelphia (night.)

Speaking Dates Of GOP Announced

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Republican state committee headquarters list the following speaking schedule for candidates this week:

U. S. Senator James J. Davis, seeking reelection; G. Harold Watkins, for auditor-general; and Judge J. Frank Graff, superior court; Justice Howard W. Hughes, supreme court, and Judge Arthur H. James, superior court, in Delaware county tomorrow.

Davis, Watkins, and Graff Wednesday at Beaver, Midland, Zellenople, Mercer, Sharon, and a night meeting at Farrell.

Thursday at Tonesta, Franklin and Clarion.

Friday at Kane, St. Mary's and Emporium, with Saturday stops at Coudersport and Wellsboro.

Hughes and Edgar R. Baird, Jr., for state treasurer, in Delaware county Wednesday. James will rejoin them to visit Lackawanna county Friday and the three men will be in Cambria county Saturday.

Robert Louis Stevenson and Mark Twain did much of their writing while in bed.

6 ARMY AIRMEN DIE IN CRASH

Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 23 (AP)—Six Army airmen were killed instantly and five others were injured, one critically, in the crash of a four-engine bomber during a takeoff yesterday at Davis Monthan Army air base.

The B-24 Liberator narrowly missed a bus filled with soldiers as it hurtled to earth just after clearing the runway. The bus driver halted his machine when he noticed the plane out of control.

A whirling propeller spun into a ground crew building 350 feet away from the crash. A soldier instructing a class was cut by flying glass.

The plane came to a stop and burned in the base salvage yards.

The dead included: Second Lt. Ernest Conley, 22, pilot, son of H. J. Conley, Williamsport, Pa.

Pfc. Howard A. Waelitz, 19, aerial gunner, son of Mrs. Carrie E. Waelitz, Ardley, Pa.

The injured included: Pfc. Alexander W. Stewart, 19, aerial gunner, son of Mrs. Anna E. Stewart, Beaver Meadows, Pa., critically.

Bricker Assails New Deal Spending

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 23 (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker, urging greater control over the use of taxpayers' money, asserted today that government corporations had spent huge sums never appropriated by Congress.

The Ohio governor, who devoted today to campaigning in Wyoming and Colorado, added in a prepared speech released by his campaign staff:

"There is a vital need in Washington for greater control over the spending of taxpayers' money. This will not be done by an administration drunk with power and bent upon making another Reichstag and rubber stamp out of our Congress."

Describing the people's money as "trust money" which "should be wisely spent and carefully accounted for," Bricker declared:

"The Republican party pledges to closely guard the nation's pocketbook and to preserve our financial integrity."

Honey Production In State Curtailed

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Pennsylvania can no longer be considered a land of milk or honey, declared the federal-state crop reporting service of the state department of agriculture in making an annual honey survey of the state.

The growing practice of cutting clover early in the season in order to produce milk from the state's dairy herds has seriously affected the output of honey, the crop service reports.

Honey production for Pennsylvania this year is estimated at 6,112,000 pounds, or 144,000 pounds less than 1943. Bee keepers said that it was too cool and wet in the spring and too dry and hot in the summer for maximum honey production.

Chapter 10
Cherry tidied herself in her own cabin. Nearly all her flowers had gone, withered in the hot, stuffy night air when the ship was closed; but she still had three marigolds alive, and a cluster of fern. Their bright, merry faces seemed to smile at her today. She had never felt younger, happier, more alive. She went outside to take her place in the rank of stewards all standing stiffly at attention.

Waiting for the captain and chief steward to reach her end of the alley, she closed her eyes for a moment, almost afraid of the happiness that was welling inside her. There was no rhyme or reason for this sudden ecstasy, this joy in living that was almost painfully sweet. But she couldn't help it. It was the first time she'd set eyes on Rory for six days. They hadn't been easy days, avoiding Sir Douglas and trying to keep Julia equitable. Now she realized she had missed Rory, missed him as one misses an old and cherished friend. And that's absurd, she told herself, because he doesn't even know I'm here, really. If I got off the ship at Panama he'd forget my name in a couple of days. He might remember Terry for a while, but not me. He's only interested in the ship, in his work.

She wondered if Pip were right, and if it were natural for a man to be quite so absorbed in his job. Perhaps Rory was in love with some girl ashore. He might even be engaged. She knew, she realized with a sudden pang, absolutely nothing about his private life. And he wasn't the sort of man to talk about his private concerns. She was putting a perfectly ridiculous significance upon a few kindly words, and the odd feeling whenever they were together that they were both seeing and feeling the same things. The sea has a magic—she smiled at herself.

In a few weeks she would disembark from the Coromandel and within a few days they would only remember her as the young stewardess who happened to come along and help them out of a quandary when Miss Harris fell ill. She was, after all, only a talented amateur. Cherry sighed, and opened her eyes. The sudden silence down the rank of waiting stewards told her that the inspection had started.

Simultaneously, on the bridge—Terry was only six-and-a-half, but he was so intelligent and eager about everything that Rory found himself going into things far more thoroughly than he intended. There were the big land maps he pored over and from them Rory was able to explain how every mile of the sea was charted in just the same way. It opened up a new wonderland for Terry.

"Then there are mountains and valleys and things under the sea. Good! I thought the sea was all flat!" "If it was all flat we wouldn't need charts old man. We have to be very careful to stay in deep water, or we might get stranded on a sandbank, or run into a rocky island during the night."

"Fancy sailing over the top of a smooth blue surface. "Tell me what the Mermaid Queen's palace is like," he begged again.

Rory told him, making up the story as he went along, amused at his own inventive powers. In his years at sea he had never before stopped to imagine what the Mermaid Queen was like, and to build her a rugged, rocky palace with waving seaweed for ferns, and giant coral for trees, and little star-faced coral for flowers. He drew upon the wonders he had seen in the Pacific Islands, and piece by piece built up a story that left Terry wide-eyed and delighted. He loved especially the Mermaid Queen herself, with long hair the color of amber in sunshine, and big gray eyes with dark, sweeping lashes, and a gown of rainbow sequins.

"Oh, she's nice! You make her sound the teeniest weeniest bit like Cherry! Is the Queen like Cherry?" he demanded.

Rory colored slightly under his tan. "Maybe. Yes, I should think she is rather like Cherry," he admitted in an odd, far-away sort of voice.

Twilight Tear's Plans Unchanged

Baltimore, Oct. 23 (AP)—The second startling upset defeat of Twilight Tear by a three-year-old filly this year hasn't made any change in the Calumet Farm plans to match her against older horses in the $25,000 Pimlico Special Nov. 1.

Toting 130 pounds, the Queen of the Turf ran out of the money for the first time in two years of racing in Saturday's Maryland Handicap at Laurel Park. She finished fourth behind Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Dare Me, a $24 for $2 choice, in the mile and a quarter race.

But the Tear came out of the race in good shape, and Calumet trainer Ben A. Jones said she apparently just couldn't win under the high impost and over the muddy racing strip.

PACKERS LEAD FOUR UNBEATEN PRO GRID TEAMS

By JERRY LISKA
Chicago, Oct. 23 (AP)—The National football league still has four unbeaten contenders, but the race obviously is the field against the power-laden Packers of Green Bay now roaring along with five straight wins.

The western division pace-setters yesterday hurled their toughest barrier to date when they stood off the previously undefeated Cleveland Rams 30-21 in a ding-dong battle at Green Bay.

It now appears that one club which might upset the prancing Packers is New York which kept atop the eastern division yesterday with a 23-0 win over the Cardinals. The Giants, undefeated in three starts, entertain the Packers in their only eastern appearance of the regular season Nov. 19.

Redskins, Eagles Win

Although the record of each is marred by a tie, the Washington Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles kept in the undefeated circle by downing Brooklyn 17-14 and Boston 38-0 respectively.

In a fifth Sabbath clash, the Chicago Bears settled for a 21-21 tie with the Detroit Lions whose flashy Frankie Sinkwich nearly tripped the league champions.

The Giants, making their home debut at the Polo Grounds before 40,734, had their shutout victory over the Card-Pitts fashioned almost single-handedly by Merchant Mariner Bill Paschal, who scored 16 of his team's 23 points. Paschal, who plays on week-end leaves, rambled 45 yards for one touchdown and scored the other two on short snatches.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—It's beginning to look as if V-Day in the war would be M-Day in the battle of pro football... although the All-American (Arch Ward) league served notice from the start that it wouldn't recognize National league "draft" lists, some National league players are showing signs of annoyance because of the signing of Bill Daley, Paul Governali and Glenn Dobbs, whom they had regarded as their own property... There have been other rumblings, which may come partly from personal feuds, but the other day one of the A.A. franchise owners remarked that his league would come through because its backers were "men of established reputation and financially able to weather four or five losing seasons"... That, with a few other pointed remarks tossed in, sounds as if he was looking for a scrap with the old league as well as the other new ones.

IT BURNED HIM UP

A new (to us) bowling alibi was offered recently by Connie Constance of Seattle, Wash.—he got "too hot"... trying to convert a spare on the last frame, Connie bumped his leg as he delivered the ball, ignited some matches in his pocket and dropped the ball... as a result, he missed the spare, a 200 game and a 600 series and his team lost by a single pin.

William Penn, the Yale halfback, went to Calvin Coolidge high school in Washington, D. C. Stanley Lowe, Marquette U. concessions manager, reports that Milwaukee football fans this year are spending nearly 15 cents per person on food and drinks this year as compared to a low of 1.4 cents for a game in 1940... American Association baseball followers are all hot up in another argument about the playoff system... Hank Soar, whose conversion into a passer has amazed the local yokels in the pro football parks, was a sensational pitcher in high school and better than average in college... Hank's ambition is to become a baseball umpire...

Enviably Defense Records Compiled

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—While Pennsylvania's scholastic grid teams are battling for conference titles on every front, two of the state's outstanding eleven, Huntingdon in the west and Allentown in the east, are compiling enviably defense records.

Huntingdon, unbeaten in seven starts, has rolled up 216 points without having its goal-line crossed. Allentown, with six wins, has scored 210 points against one touchdown—by Hazleton.

Huntingdon still must outdistance three unbeaten opponents: State College, 13-0 winner over Phillipsburg; Somerset, triumphant over Ebensburg 13-0, and Westmont, idle in conference ranks over the weekend.

Allentown must dispose of three rivals to clinch its second straight title. Williamsport's 53-0 win over Scranton Tech was impressive; Bethlehem defeated Reading 49-0, while Easton turned back Pottsville 25-0.

HORNETS TAKE HOCKEY LEAD

(By The Associated Press)
Pittsburgh's Hornets, one of last year's fall-enders in the American Hockey League, have shown a complete reversal of form and are now leading the league by two points over second place Cleveland. Last night's 8-1 victory over Providence, marked the Hornets' third in a row.

Playing before 5,500 at Providence, largest opening night crowd in Providence hockey history, the Hornets were paced by Bill Gaud and Bob Walton who jammed home two goals each. Dede Klein, Tony Hamerlin, Bob Gracie and Howard Mackie supplied the remainder of the Pittsburgh total. Roland Forger was high man for the Reds with two goals, as Roger Gagne and Florent Lauson counted once apiece.

The St. Louis Flyers made their league debut by holding the Indianapolis Caps to a 1-1 tie.

Buffalo Bisons, 1943 champions, suffered a home-opening crowd of 3,864 as they administered a 5-2 defeat to the Hershey Bears. The Bisons put the battle on ice when, after the Bears had gone ahead 1-0 in the second period, Doug Lewis, Len Halderson and Eddie Emerson slid the puck past Bear goalie Nick Damore within ten minutes.

WILDCATS TRIP MULES; OTHER STATE RESULTS

(By The Associated Press)
Although many of Pennsylvania college teams battled examinations off the gridiron, eight of the state's football teams played over the weekend with these results:

Villanova defeated Muhlenberg at Shibe Park when, in the closing seconds of the first half, two apprentice goads who were playing their last game for the Wildcats, used a 40-yard forward pass for a touchdown. Quarterback Dick Moor tossed the pass to Bob Forrest, left end from Bucknell, who took it 21 yards for a score.

Fred Robbins, former Eastern high school halfback, led the Leopards of Lafayette in their 44-0 victory over the Lehigh Engineers at Bethlehem. Robbins accounted for three of the Leopards' touchdowns.

Drexel traveled to Bloomsburg where it was defeated 20-6 by the hometown State Teachers' college on a wet field. Drexel's lone tally came when Dick David scampered 43 yards to cross the goal line.

Fresh Captain Stars

John Cuckran, 18-year-old Lansford, Pa., star and only freshman to ever captain a Penn State team, speared a punt out of the air and raced 50 yards to give the Lions a 6-0 triumph over Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y. The score came in the last two minutes of the game. Cuckran was one of 23 "Saturday grid stars" picked by the Associated Press.

The University of Illinois was too much for the Pitt Panthers who lost 39-5 on their home field. It was Pitt's third defeat in five starts.

The University of Pennsylvania, one of the idle week-end teams, will defend its unbeaten, untied record Saturday against the Navy. The university has announced that the game is a sell out with 70,596 tickets already reserved.

PACKERS LEAD FOUR UNBEATEN PRO GRID TEAMS

By JERRY LISKA
Chicago, Oct. 23 (AP)—The National football league still has four unbeaten contenders, but the race obviously is the field against the power-laden Packers of Green Bay now roaring along with five straight wins.

The western division pace-setters yesterday hurdled their toughest barrier to date when they stood off the previously undefeated Cleveland Rams 30-21 in a ding-dong battle at Green Bay.

It now appears that one club which might upset the prancing Packers is New York which kept atop the eastern division yesterday with a 23-0 win over the Cardinals. The Giants, undefeated in three starts, entertain the Packers in their only eastern appearance of the regular season Nov. 19.

Redskins, Eagles Win

Although the record of each is marred by a tie, the Washington Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles kept in the undefeated circle by downing Brooklyn 17-14 and Boston 38-0 respectively.

In a fifth Sabbath clash, the Chicago Bears settled for a 21-21 tie with the Detroit Lions whose flashy Frankie Sinkwich nearly tripped the league champions.

The Giants, making their home debut at the Polo Grounds before 40,734, had their shutout victory over the Card-Pitts fashioned almost single-handedly by Merchant Mariner Bill Paschal, who scored 18 of his team's 23 points. Paschal, who plays on week-end leaves, ramblled 45 yards for one touchdown and scored the other two on short snags.

Standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pts	O.P.

WILDCATS TRIP MULES; OTHER STATE RESULTS

(By The Associated Press)
Although many of Pennsylvania college teams battled examinations off the gridiron, eight of the state's football teams played over the week-end with these results:

Villanova defeated Muhlenberg at Shibe Park when, in the closing seconds of the first half, two apprentice gobs who were playing their last game for the Wildcats, used a 40-yard forward pass for a touchdown. Quarterback Dick Host tossed the pass to Bob Forrest, left end from Bucknell, who took it 21 yards for a score.

Fred Robbins, former Easton high school halfback, led the Leopards of Lafayette in their 44-0 victory over the Lehigh Engineers at Bethlehem. Robbins accounted for three of the Leopards' touchdowns.

Drexel traveled to Bloomsburg where it was defeated 20-6 by the hometown State Teachers' college on a wet field. Drexel's lone tally came when Dick Dowd scampered 43 yards to cross the goal line.

Fresh Captain Stars

John Cuckran, 18-year-old Lansford, Pa., star and only freshman to ever captain a Penn State team, speared a punt out of the air and raced 50 yards to give the Lions a 6-0 triumph over Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y. The score came in the last two minutes of the game. Cuckran was one of 23 "Saturday grid stars" picked by the Associated Press.

The University of Illinois was too much for the Pitt Panthers who lost 39-3 in their home field. It was Pitt's third defeat in five starts.

The University of Pennsylvania, one of the idle week-end teams, will defend its unbeaten, untied record Saturday against the Navy. The university has announced that the game is a sell out with 70,598 tickets already reserved.

PACKERS LEAD FOUR UNBEATEN PRO GRID TEAMS

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Oct. 23 (AP)—The National football league still has four unbeaten contenders, but the race obviously is the field against the power-laden Packers of Green Bay now roaring along with five straight wins.

The western division pace-setters yesterday hurdled their toughest barrier to date when they stood off the previously undefeated Cleveland Rams 30-21 in a ding-dong battle at Green Bay.

It now appears that one club which might upset the prancing Packers is New York which kept atop the eastern division yesterday with a 23-0 win over the Cardinals. The Giants, undefeated in three starts, entertain the Packers in their only eastern appearance of the regular season Nov. 19.

Redskins, Eagles Win

Although the record of each is marred by a tie, the Washington Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles kept in the undefeated circle by downing Brooklyn 17-14 and Boston 38-0 respectively.

In a fifth Sabbath clash, the Chicago Bears settled for a 21-21 tie with the Detroit Lions whose flashy Frankie Sinkwich nearly tripped the league champions.

The Giants, making their home debut at the Polo Grounds before 40,734, had their shutout victory over the Card-Pitts fashioned almost single-handedly by Merchant Mariner Bill Paschal, who scored 18 of his team's 23 points. Paschal, who plays on week-end leaves, rambladed 45 yards for one touchdown and scored the other two on short snafus.

SPORT SHORTS

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—James Wilson, 33-year-old New York skipper, holds the national AAU 10,000 meter (6 1/4 miles) walking championship.

Wilson covered the distance here yesterday in 49 minutes and 47 seconds and came in 100 yards ahead of Fred Sharaga, of the 92nd Street YMHA of New York, who finished in 49:19.3.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Johnny Walker, Philadelphia, and Van McNutt, two heavy hitting ringmen, meet tonight at the Met in a 10-round windup feature bout.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles of the Eastern hockey league announce Joe Desson will play for them again this season. Desson, tagged the bad boy of the league, spent more time in the penalty box than any other player last season.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—It's beginning to look as if V-Day in the war would be M-Day in the battle of pro football . . . although the All-American (Arch Ward) league served notice from the start that it wouldn't recognize National league "draft" lists, some National leaguers are showing signs of annoyance because of the signing of Bill Daley, Paul Governali and Glenn Dobbs, whom they had regarded as their own property. . . . There have been other rumblings, which may come partly from personal feuds, but the other day one of the A.A. franchise owners remarked that his league would come through because its backers were "men of established reputation and financially able to weather four or five losing seasons." . . . That, with a few other pointed remarks tossed in, sounds as if he was looking for a scrap with the old league as well as the other new ones.

IT BURNED HIM UP

A new (to us) bowling alibi was offered recently by Connie Constance of Seattle, Wash.—he got "too hot" . . . trying to convert a spare on the last frame, Connie bumped his leg as he delivered the ball, ignited some matches in his pocket and dropped the ball . . . as a result, he missed the spare, a 200 game and a 600 series and his team lost by a single pin.

MONDAY MATINEE

William Penn, the Yale halfback, went to Calvin Coolidge high school in Washington, D. C. . . . Stanley Lowe, Marquette U. concessions manager, reports that Milwaukee football fans this year are spending nearly 15 cents per person on food and drinks this year as compared to a low of 1.4 cents for a game in 1940. . . . American Association baseball followers are all het up in another argument about the playoff system. . . . Hank Soar, whose conversion into a passer has amazed the local yokels in the pro football parks, was a sensational pitcher in high school and better than average in college. . . . Hank's ambition is to become a baseball umpire. . . .

TEACHER'S PET

When Billy Arnold, the young Philadelphia welterweight, fights in his home town, a couple of his high school teachers always are on hand to cheer him on. . . . Well, a couple of Annie Oakleys for teacher ought to be even more effective than a big red apple.

SERVICE DEPT.

The hockey fanning season on Guam was opened recently when Freddie Metcalfe, former New York Rangers coach, Tom Leahy, ex-Metropolitan league player, and a Rover fan named Taylor encountered one another. . . . Capt. Lee C. Sonedecker, former Washington State basketball player, is claiming record of some sort for short tenure as a cage coach. The Keesler Field Athletic Training Council voted recently to appoint Capt. Sonedecker boss of the station basketballers and exactly 37 minutes later he received a wire from the War Department giving him an overseas assignment.

Enviably Defense Records Compiled

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—While Pennsylvania's scholastic grid teams are battling for conference titles on every front, two of the state's outstanding eleven, Huntingdon in the west and Allentown in the east are compiling enviable defense records.

Huntingdon, unbeaten in seven starts, has rolled up 216 points without having its goal-line crossed. Allentown, with six wins, has scored 210 points against one touchdown—by Hazleton.

Huntingdon still must outdistance three unbeaten opponents: State College, 13-0 winner over Philipsburg; Somerset, triumphant over Ebensburg 13-0, and Westmont, idle in conference ranks over the weekend.

Allentown must dispose of three rivals to clinch its second straight title. Williamsport's 53-0 win over Scranton Tech was impressive; Bethlehem defeated Reading 46-0, while Easton turned back Pottsville 25-0.

Charles E. McMaster, McSherrystown, to Gerald Francis and Elsie Catherine Liversberger, McSherrystown, a property on the north side of Main street, McSherrystown.

HORNETS TAKE HOCKEY LEAD

(By The Associated Press)

Pittsburgh's Hornets, one of last year's fall-ers in the American Hockey League, have shown a complete reversal of form and are now leading the league by two points over second place Cleveland. Last night's 8-4 victory over Providence marked the Hornet's third in a row.

Playing before 5,500 at Providence, largest opening night crowd in Providence hockey history, the Hornets were paced by Bill Gauf and Bob Walton who rammed home two goals each. Dede Klein, Tony Hemmerlin, Bob Gracie and Howard Mackie supplied the remainder of the Pittsburgh total. Roland Forgett was high man for the Reds with two goals, as Roger Gagne and Florent Lauzon counted once apiece.

The St. Louis Flyers made their league debut by holding the Indianapolis Caps to a 1-1 tie.

Buffalo Bisons, 1943 champions, satisfied a home-opening crowd of 8,864 as they administered a 5-2 defeat to the Hershey Bears. The Bisons put the battle on ice when, after the Bears had gone ahead 1-0 in the second period, Doug Lewis, Len Halderson and Eddie Emerton slid the puck past Bear Goalie Nick Damore within ten minutes.
